75 More U.S. Troops Are Released

Osborne Expects Greater Number of Americans to Be Freed From Next Prison Camp

Panmunjom, Aug. 18 (AP)—Seventy-five more Americans streamed back to freedom today as the great Korean war prisoner exchange entered its third week.

Besides the Americans, the Reds turned back 75 British and 300 South Koreans—50 more than the 400 daily the Reds originally promised.

Again tomorrow, the Communists planned to step up deliveries. They said they would return 456 allied captives — 75 Americans, 75 British and 306 South Koreans. It will be the largest single group returned.

In 14 days, the Reds have returned 1,105 of the 3,313 Americans they claim they held, a figure far less percentage-wise than the number of British—570 of 921—returned.

Increase Expected

Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne, chief of the Munsan Provisional Command, said the number of Americans repatriated probably will increase when the Reds start emptying the next prison camp.

Several liberated Americans said they believed the next POWs will come from Camp No. 3 at Chongsong. One prisoner estimated it holds 200 to 300 Americans captured in the early months of fighting.

Two days of bad weather, the UN command reported, prevented shipment of Red prisoners from Koje island to Panmunjom and will cut deliveries to 600 North Koreans Wednesday and none on Thursday. The daily average had been about 2,400. The UN command said it hoped to resume regular schedule Friday or Saturday.

Tuesday's liberated Americans and British came back smiling, but their gaunt bodies showed the effects of many months in North Korean stockades.

One repatriate, a prisoner for more than 25 months, wryly described the food.

"We ate like pigs," said Pfc. Earl C. Barnard, of Martinez, Calif. "I cringe when I think of it."

In Wooden Troughs

"They brought the food in wooden troughs. It was soupy sorghum and rice. Of course you had meat in your sorghum—worms in the sorghum, that is.

"At times there was enough for all of us. At times there wasn't."

Other liberated Americans again told of fellow prisoners being taken away by the Reds at about the time they were scheduled for repatriation.

"They took away at least 40," Sgt. George W. Burke of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. recalled. "They just pulled them out after telling them 'we don't know where you're going'."

"If you were too popular you stood a good chance of being taken out. The guys they took were classified as 'reactionaries'—prisoners who stubbornly resisted Communist indoctrination."

The UN command, meanwhile, reportedly was ready to renew demands for the return of all allied prisoners.

A strong statement was expected to be handed to the Communists Tuesday, but a meeting of the Joint Committee for the repatriation of prisoners of war was postponed at the last minute at allied request until Wednesday.

'Hot' Statement Forecast

The source said the UN command statement would be "very hot" and probably would (1) demand Communist assurances that they will return all POWs and (2) answer Red charges of atrocities in UN POW camps.

Communist propaganda mills continued to pour out stories of what they call the brutality and horrors of UN POW camps.

Communist Pieping radio Tuesday gave an example. It told of a Chinese prisoner, Mu Ki Na, who "was caught by camp guards drawing the Korean Communist flag on a wall."

"He was stripped by the American of all of his clothing," Pieping said, "and thrown into a pit surrounded by a barbed wire fence. . . . The Americans then let in two bloodhounds to attack Mu. Mu screamed in death agony as piece after piece of his flesh was bitten off by the ferocious animals. He died a virtual bleeding skeleton and the pit was soaked with his blood."

Peiping Tuesday night quoted returned Communist prisoners as saying at least 200 to 300 Chinese "were secretly withheld by the American side."

In Washington the army denied published reports that the UN command had repatriated the last of the Chinese willing to return home. It said that some Chinese still remain to be exchanged, but gave no figure.

Army Secretary Stevens said last week the UN command was withholding about 250 Chinese from repatriation until the Reds gave assurance they would release all allied prisoners.

New Strife Is Reported In Morocco

Rumored That Pasha of Marrakech Might Send Troops Against Sultan

Rabat, Morocco, Aug. 18 (AP)—Fresh tension gripped Morocco today as reports circulated that the Pasha of Marrakech's fierce Berber troops were poised to move against French-backed Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

The Pascha Thami El Glaoui, also threatened to turn against the French unless they cracked down on the sultan, titular ruler and nominally the spiritual leader of the country.

Warning that only French union troops guarding this North African protectorate bar the pasha's path, experienced observers predicted that the climax of the three-cornered struggle between the Nationalist-minded sultan, the hitherto pro-French pasha and the French government is yet to come.

Goes Home to Paris

Gen. Augustin Guillaume, France's resident general in the seething protectorate, flew home to Paris yesterday to report on "the extremely grave situation." He took off shortly after denouncing the sultan for issuing what French Colonials labeled a "call to holy war."

Guillaume was credited with dissuading El Glaoui earlier from launching actual civil war last week in an attempt to dethrone the sultan. But the general was unable to prevent bloody rioting which took the lives of at least 34 persons, including 15 Frenchmen.

In a communique issued from the palace here last night the sultan urged the country to remain calm even in the face of "sacrilege threatening Islamic laws."

'Spontaneous Protest'

The sultan termed the weekend violence a spontaneous protest by his supporters against the proclamation by El Glaoui's followers of a new Imam—leader of the faithful, religious chief of the Morocco Moslems. This is a title always previously held by the sultan and the source of much of his political authority.

The El Galoui faction proclaimed the sultan's 72-year-old uncle as the new Imam.

Informed persons declared the southern Berber tribesmen controlled by El Glaoui are ready to ride against the sultan whenever the pasha gives the order.

"The only thing standing in their way is the French union forces," these sources added. "If El Glaoui does decide to war on the sultan, it is doubtful whether the French would oppose their best friend in Morroco. In addition, virtually all the non-French soldiers in the Union Army here are Berbers recruited from El Glaoui's mountainious territory."

Strong French military and police forces kept tight control over cities throughout the protectorate as tension mounted in the native quarters. French observation planes hovered overhead.

Special precautions are being taken to prevent U. S. Air Force personnel, stationed at air bases throughout the country, from being caught in the rioting. The Officers' Club here has been closed and all air force families have been ordered to keep off the streets.

Refuses to Tell

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—Edward M. Rothschild refused today to say whether he is a member of the Communist party or whether he ever stole secret documents from the Government Printing Office. Rothschild, a bookbinding machine operator at the government printing plant, told the Senate investigations subcommittee he declined to answer on the ground that he might incriminate himself. Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) told the slightly built bushy haired witness that the charges made against him in secret testimony before the subcommittee are perhaps "the most serious charges ever made against any government official."

Group Kills Red Bid on Two Nations

Soviet Demand About Red China, North Korea Thrown Out in Committee

United Nations, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Russia proposed today that the Korean peace conference be made up of five so-called neutrals in addition to the countries who took part in the actual fighting.

The Soviet resolution called for inclusion of the following countries:

The United States, Britain, France, Russia, Communist China, India, Poland, Sweden, Burma, North Korea and South Korea.

The Soviet move came as the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee rejected a Russian demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to take part in the current UN Korean debate.

Russia's effort to turn the Korean parley into a sort of round-table affair contrasted sharply with the United States demand that the talks be restricted to representatives of the "two sides" who fought in Korea.

Plunges Into Debate

The committee plunged head-on into the general debate after turning down the demand for inviting Red China and North Korea here.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., insisted that the peace conference must be limited to the countries who took part, with the possible exception of Russia. He said he had no objection to Russia's participation if the North Koreans and Chinese Reds want it.

Britain and France both advocated a broader representation than that sought by the United States.

British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd said Britain "does not wish to perpetuate this concept of two sides, to have the peace conference as a kind of political Panmunjom."

He specifically urged the inclusion of India.

Maurice Schumann, French foreign undersecretary of state, said his country proposed that "all those who can usefully participate in the negotiations should, in all logic, be invited."

He said the conference should not consist "of two opposing camps confronting one another."

If the Korean question is first settled, other Far Eastern questions, including that of Indochina, could be discussed, he said.

The vote on the two countries was taken separately. The proposal to invite Communist China was 14 in favor, 34 against and nine abstaining. The vote against inviting North Korea was 18-34 with seven abstaining.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky warned before the decision that "no solution is possible in their absence."

He also disclosed that the Soviet Union wants the forthcoming Korean peace conference to include a broader membership than the actual countries who participated in the fighting, as the United States has been demanding.

Immediately after the vote, U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. opened the general debate with a strong plea that the peace parley be limited to the "two sides" as opposed to the so-called roundtable idea.

It was on this ground that Lodge opposed the invitation of the Chinese Reds and the North Koreans. He said it was a question solely for the UN to determine which countries should sit on its side and that the Communist aggressors should pick their own representatives.

Vishinsky took issue with this interpretation of the armistice agreement. The Korean conference, he said, should be a political conference in the broad meaning of the term and not merely of the two sides.

It is incorrect and unjust to consider the composition of the conference in the absence of the Chinese Communists and North Koreans, Vishinsky said.

Most of Russia's support in the voting came from the Arab and Asian countries. Abstentions included Mexico, Bolivia, Israel and Guatemala. No complete record of the voting was available since there was no roll call.

Roundup of Suspects Is Continued by Mossadegh

One Garbage Bid Is $1,500 Lower

Three Other Collectors Hold to $6,500 Figure and Gas Allotment

Three of four bids submitted yesterday for city garbage removal contracts remained at the figure which the Board of Public Works considers too high, and the fourth was $1,500 lower with a request for less "free" gasoline.

Still at $6,500 a year each were the bids of Charles Sorbello, Port Ewen; William U. Kessler, Linderman avenue extension, and Kasper Gerlach, of the Sawkill road. Each also asks the city to supply 50 gallons of gas a week. Contracts are to be awarded on a three-year basis.

Edgar P. Elliott, of Columbia street, Sunset Park, submitted a bid of $5,000 and asks only 35 gallons of gasoline a week.

To Study Bids

Commissioners Raymond L. Whitbeck and Joseph E. Honig, and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly were named to investigate the bids and report to the board. They are to meet Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Contracts had been awarded on a three-year basis on bids of about $3,300 each, but subsequently a regulation requiring the cooking of all garbage collected, it was found would boost the cost, and the collectors were asked to bid again.

They submitted the $6,500 bids, which, officials said, were apparently too high as compared to what was being done in other communities, and they asked for the bids which were opened at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Required by Law

A health regulation on the collection and use of garbage for the feeding of pigs, requires the cooking of the garbage on the assumption that some of the pigs or pork is shipped out of the area, and is not thoroughly subject to local inspection or control.

The board held a regular meeting after considering the bids. It authorized the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., to make changes in conjunction with the installation of parking meters on the John street parking lot, owned by the county.

Central Hudson will remove 296 feet of overhead circuit and two lights. A light standard and parking meter is to be removed on the Wall street side where an entrance to a new section for official parking is to be built.

The county is to maintain the light service when changes are made in the uptown parking ground.

Must Be Notified

Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, in a letter, asked the board to stress to its employes that notice must be given to the commission on all job classification changes in the future so that they may be officially acted upon.

City Engineer Arthur J. Hallinan notified the board that John Netter, who had been granted a temporary leave of absence to attend ROTC at Fort Sill, Okla., has resumed as engineering aide, grade 1.

Inoculation Completed

Inoculation of 20 junior staff members and campers from Camp Wyandot in Mt. Tremper, who remained in this arear after the camp closed, has been completed, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner, reported this morning. No new polio cases have been reported anywhere in the county, and the county total since Jan. 1 remains at eight, of which four were nonresident patients. One of the cases was fatal, and the others were reported as not serious.

Police, Troops Get 30 Accused of Attempt to Oust Premier at Tehran

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 18 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's triumphant government continued a roundup today of suspects in Sunday's attempted coup. From a hill hideout the fugitive Shah's appointee, Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, defiantly called on army officers to lay down their lives for the monarchy.

(Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and Empress Soraya, meanwhile, left Iraq by plane today for Europe. It was not known whether they would stop in Rome or go on to London. Earlier, in Baghdad, the Shah was quoted as telling Iraqui Parliament leaders he hoped to return to his throne and that Mossadegh had violated the law).

Arrested 30 Ringleaders

Unofficial reports said police and pro-Mossadegh troops had arrested 30 alleged ringleaders of the palace attempt to oust the aged premier. Foreign Minister Hussein Fatemi admitted 14 were army leaders.

Zahedi's declaration was handed newsmen by a courier in Tehran as troops scoured the countryside for him. Addressed to Iranian Army officers, it said:

"Be ready for sacrifice and the loss of your lives for the maintenance of independence and the monarchy of Iran and the preservation of the principles of the holy religion of Islam, which now is being attacked by infidel Communists."

But Mossadegh's government appeared firmly in power after the coup launched after Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi signed a decree to depose the premier.

Shah Takes Flight

The monarch named Zahedi to the post but pro-Mossadegh forces routed a display of force by the imperial guard and the 34-year-old Shah fled.

There was some indication that uneasy bonds holding Mossadegh's supporters and the Communists in a loose coalition were wearing thin.

Police broke up a Communist attempt to topple a giant bronze statue of the Shah's father, Reza Shah, but turned a blind eye as strongly pro-Mossadegh Pan-Iranist party gangs finally brought the image down.

A second statue of Reza Shah also was pulled down. Armed youths roamed the city's streets, shouting anti-Shah solgans and ripping up pictures of the ruler.

Edward Thatcher Dies in Bearsville After Long Illness

Noted Craftsman, 70, Was One of Founders of Colony; Funeral on Thursday

Edward J. Thatcher, 70, of Bearsville, dean of American craftsmen and long an acknowledged authority in crafts tool design, died early this morning at his residence after a long illness.

Funeral for Mr. Thatcher will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Victor Lasher Funeral Home, Woodstock, with services to be conducted by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd. Burial will follow in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Woodstock.

Mr. Thatcher is survived by his widow, Isabel Howell Thatcher, and a son, Edward J., Jr.

Ned Thatcher, as he was known to many thousands of persons interested in arts and crafts throughout the world, was born January 11, 1883 in Morristown, N. J., and at an early age he developed a versatility in making things with his hands that decided his career.

One of Colony Founders

He went to Woodstock in his early manhood as one of the founders of the noted colony and numbered among his close personal friends three men since deceased, who charged Thatcher with the development of crafts in the village. These men were Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead, Bolton Brown and Hervey White.

Ned Thatcher taught metalwork 15 years in the department of Arts and Crafts, Columbia University, New York, and it was he who developed an important phase of occupational therapy for disabled veterans after World War 1. He devised a method for making tin can toys from discarded food containers, instructed his assistants in the technique, and went with them into veteran's hospitals to carry on the work among disabled soldiers, marines and sailors.

Ned Thatcher also conducted a summer school in Woodstock in metalcraft, wrote articles on ship models and miniature scenes for Ladies' Home Journal, and authored additional features in metalcraft for Popular Science and Popular Mechanics magazines. He also was author of an encyclopedia of tools for the firm of William Dixon, Newark, N. J., and this volume, repeated in many editions, has become a standard

Democrats Count Upon Past History To Decide House

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—A Republican claim that the GOP will strengthen its control of the House next year brought a Democratic retort today that it's too early to make predictions on the outcome of the 1954 voting.

Democrats are counting heavily on tradition to recapture House control in November 1954. Tradition says that the party in power loses seats in an off-year election, in which there is no presidential contest.

Only once in modern times, in 1934, did the voting deviate from that tradition. Democrats won seats in the balloting that year, which was the first mid-term election of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration.

Right now Democrats trail Republicans in the House by 6 seats, the count being 218 Republicans, 212 Democrats, 1 Independent and 4 vacancies. Three of the four vacancies were Republican seats in the 1952 election. All 435 seats are filled every two years.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), who, as chairman of the Republican Congressional Comittee, has the job of directing the GOP's bid for continued control of the House, claims Republicans will pick up 25 more seats next year.

He conceded, in an interview, the possibility of some Republican losses but said there would not be enough to change the balance of power.

"We are fighting to hold all we have and will pick up 25 new seats," Simpson said.

Simpson's Democratic counterpart, Rep. Mike Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, wasn't available for comment but his top political aide, Victor Hunt Harding, said:

"I am making no predictions at this time. It's too early to make predictions on an election more than a year away."

Other Democratic strategists claim that preliminary reports indicate President Eisenhower, while still popular with the voters, isn't as strong as he was a year ago.

Ulster County Fair Opens Wednesday At Forsyth Park

Booths Are Being Erected at Grounds — Public Hours Begin at 10 o'Clock

Forsyth Park was converted to a fairgrounds on Monday as tents were erected, a show ring marked off and other facilities put in place for the annual Ulster County Fair which opens Wednesday morning for a two-day stand.

Today the individual booths were being set up and commercial exhibitors of farm machinery, feed, household appliances and other supplies were beginning to move in.

By 9 a. m. Wednesday, the fair grounds will be the scene of much activity as the individual exhibitors — homemakers; vegetable, fruit and dairy farmers; 4-H Club youngsters—arrive to register their produce and get them ready for the judging and public viewing by 10 o'clock.

Hours for Public

Official hours for the public to visit the fair are from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Wednesday, and from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday.

With cattle stalls moved to a newly graded area, the animal show ring this year appears almost twice as large as in previous years.

The 4-H Clubs this year are expecting a total of 50 entries in the cattle classes, slightly fewer than in some previous years. There will be 24 booths, however, from 4-H Clubs from all over the county, representative of club work.

Club officials are particularly proud this year of the fact that five Ulster county girls qualified for State Fair competition in the dress review, and point out that this fact is an indication that the dress review at the county fair will be more meaningful than

Scouts Will Hold Fund Drive Tonight

A one-night drive for funds for the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held in the Kingston District tonight, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The Kingston District's quota is $9,210. The council is presently serving the highest membership ever attained, with 598 boys in the Kingston District alone and almost 2,000 boys taking part in the scouting program throughout the two-county Council area.

Edward J. Flynn Dies in Ireland

Former Chairman of Party Won Nomination for Roosevelt

Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 18 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, 61, former national chairman of the U. S. Democratic party, died in St. Vincent's Hospital here last night.

Many gave him credit, together with James J. Farley, for winning Franklin D. Roosevelt the presidential nomination in 1932.

The cause of death was not immediately announced. He had been ailing for some time, however, and his condition apparently worsened while on vacation here.

He sailed from New York for Ireland July 25 aboard the Mauretania. He went aboard the liner in a wheelchair. His wife and daughter, Sheila, 17, sailed with him.

Gunmen Seize $160,000 After Grabbing Bank Aide

Floral Park, Aug. 18 (AP)—Daring gunmen grabbed an assistant cashier on the lawn of his home this morning, forced him to open his bank's vault and escaped with $160,000.

They took the cashier with them, but dumped him out a few miles away.

Eric Gronewall, 44, told police that as he was leaving his Bellemore home to go to a branch of the Franklin National Bank, a man stepped out of the bushes.

He had a gun, and a canvass bag. Jamming the gun into Gronewall's side, he warned him not to cry out, adding "we know all about you and the bank."

He climbed into Gronewall's car with him and they drove to the bank. Gronewall became aware another car was following, but the gunman said sternly, "don't you dare turn around."

The gunman, about 30, dark hair and medium height, chatted as they drove along, said he had been in the army and before that worked in a bank, but didn't say where.

He had planned while he was in the army to rob another bank, he said, but when he got out found it had closed.

Arriving at the Franklin branch, the gunman marched Gronewall into the bank, forced him to open the vault and after taking the money marched him back to his car again.

They drove to Bellerose, Queens. Gronewall was told to get out. He never got a good look at the other man in the following car, he said. His own car was found a short distance away after he notified police of the holdup.

Police put out an alarm for a 1947 Ford, license number NC 9369 with two armed men in it.

Group Kills Red Bid on Two Nations

Soviet Demand About Red China, North Korea Thrown Out in Committee

United Nations, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Russia proposed today that the Korean peace conference be made up of five so-called neutrals in addition to the countries who took part in the actual fighting.

The Soviet resolution called for inclusion of the following countries:

The United States, Britain, France, Russia, Communist China, India, Poland, Sweden, Burma, North Korea and South Korea.

The Soviet move came as the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee rejected a Russian demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to take part in the current UN Korean debate.

Russia's effort to turn the Korean parley into a sort of round-table affair contrasted sharply with the United States demand that the talks be restricted to representatives of the "two sides" who fought in Korea.

Plunges Into Debate

The committee plunged head-on into the general debate after turning down the demand for inviting Red China and North Korea here.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., insisted that the peace conference must be limited to the countries who took part, with the possible exception of Russia. He said he had no objection to Russia's participation if the North Koreans and Chinese Reds want it.

Britain and France both advocated a broader representation than that sought by the United States.

British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd said Britain "does not wish to perpetuate this concept of two sides, to have the peace conference as a kind of political Panmunjom."

He specifically urged the inclusion of India.

Maurice Schumann, French foreign undersecretary of state, said his country proposed that "all those who can usefully participate in the negotiations should, in all logic, be invited."

He said the conference should not consist "of two opposing camps confronting one another."

If the Korean question is first settled, other Far Eastern questions, including that of Indochina, could be discussed, he said.

The vote on the two countries was taken separately. The proposal to invite Communist China was 14 in favor, 34 against and nine abstaining. The vote against inviting North Korea was 18-34 with seven abstaining.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky warned before the decision that "no solution is possible in their absence."

He also disclosed that the Soviet Union wants the forthcoming Korean peace conference to include a broader membership than the actual countries who participated in the fighting, as the United States has been demanding.

Immediately after the vote, U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. opened the general debate with a strong plea that the peace parley be limited to the "two sides" as opposed to the so-called roundtable idea.

It was on this ground that Lodge opposed the invitation of the Chinese Reds and the North Koreans. He said it was a question solely for the UN to determine which countries should sit on its side and that the Communist aggressors should pick their own representatives.

Vishinsky took issue with this interpretation of the armistice agreement. The Korean conference, he said, should be a political conference in the broad meaning of the term and not merely of the two sides.

It is incorrect and unjust to consider the composition of the conference in the absence of the Chinese Communists and North Koreans, Vishinsky said.

Most of Russia's support in the voting came from the Arab and Asian countries. Abstentions included Mexico, Bolivia, Israel and Guatemala. No complete record of the voting was available since there was no roll call.

Roundup of Suspects Is Continued by Mossadegh

Police, Troops Get 30 Accused of Attempt to Oust Premier at Tehran

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 18 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's triumphant government continued a roundup today of suspects in Sunday's attempted coup. From a hill hideout the fugitive Shah's appointee, Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, defiantly called on army officers to lay down their lives for the monarchy.

(Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and Empress Soraya, meanwhile, left Iraq by plane today for Europe. It was not known whether they would stop in Rome or go on to London. Earlier, in Baghdad, the Shah was quoted as telling Iraqui Parliament leaders he hoped to return to his throne and that Mossadegh had violated the law).

Arrested 30 Ringleaders

Unofficial reports said police and pro-Mossadegh troops had arrested 30 alleged ringleaders of the palace attempt to oust the aged premier. Foreign Minister Hussein Fatemi admitted 14 were army leaders.

Zahedi's declaration was handed newsmen by a courier in Tehran as troops scoured the countryside for him. Addressed to Iranian Army officers, it said:

"Be ready for sacrifice and the loss of your lives for the maintenance of independence and the monarchy of Iran and the preservation of the principles of the holy religion of Islam, which now is being attacked by infidel Communists."

But Mossadegh's government appeared firmly in power after the coup launched after Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi signed a decree to depose the premier.

Shah Takes Flight

The monarch named Zahedi to the post but pro-Mossadegh forces routed a display of force by the imperial guard and the 34-year-old Shah fled.

There was some indication that uneasy bonds holding Mossadegh's supporters and the Communists in a loose coalition were wearing thin.

Police broke up a Communist attempt to topple a giant bronze statue of the Shah's father, Reza Shah, but turned a blind eye as strongly pro-Mossadegh Pan-Iranist party gangs finally brought the image down.

A second statue of Reza Shah also was pulled down. Armed youths roamed the city's streets, shouting anti-Shah solgans and ripping up pictures of the ruler.

One Garbage Bid Is $1,500 Lower

Three Other Collectors Hold to $6,500 Figure and Gas Allotment

Three of four bids submitted yesterday for city garbage removal contracts remained at the figure which the Board of Public Works considers too high, and the fourth was $1,500 lower with a request for less "free" gasoline.

Still at $6,500 a year each were the bids of Charles Sorbello, Port Ewen; William U. Kessler, Linderman avenue extension, and Kasper Gerlach, of the Sawkill road. Each also asks the city to supply 50 gallons of gas a week. Contracts are to be awarded on a three-year basis.

Edgar P. Elliott, of Columbia street, Sunset Park, submitted a bid of $5,000 and asks only 35 gallons of gasoline a week.

To Study Bids

Commissioners Raymond L. Whitbeck and Joseph E. Honig, and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly were named to investigate the bids and report to the board. They are to meet Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Contracts had been awarded on a three-year basis on bids of about $3,300 each, but subsequently a regulation requiring the cooking of all garbage collected, it was found would boost the cost, and the collectors were asked to bid again.

They submitted the $6,500 bids, which, officials said, were apparently too high as compared to what was being done in other communities, and they asked for the bids which were opened at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Required by Law

A health regulation on the collection and use of garbage for the feeding of pigs, requires the cooking of the garbage on the assumption that some of the pigs or pork is shipped out of the area, and is not thoroughly subject to local inspection or control.

The board held a regular meeting after considering the bids. It authorized the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., to make changes in conjunction with the installation of parking meters on the John street parking lot, owned by the county.

Central Hudson will remove 296 feet of overhead circuit and two lights. A light standard and parking meter is to be removed on the Wall street side where an entrance to a new section for official parking is to be built.

The county is to maintain the light service when changes are made in the uptown parking ground.

Must Be Notified

Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, in a letter, asked the board to stress to its employes that notice must be given to the commission on all job classification changes in the future so that they may be officially acted upon.

City Engineer Arthur J. Hallinan notified the board that John Netter, who had been granted a temporary leave of absence to attend ROTC at Fort Sill, Okla., has resumed as engineering aide, grade 1.

Inoculation Completed

Inoculation of 20 junior staff members and campers from Camp Wyandot in Mt. Tremper, who remained in this arear after the camp closed, has been completed, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner, reported this morning. No new polio cases have been reported anywhere in the county, and the county total since Jan. 1 remains at eight, of which four were non-resident patients. One of the cases was fatal, and the others were reported as not serious.

Edward Thatcher Dies in Bearsville After Long Illness

Noted Craftsman, 70, Was One of Founders of Colony; Funeral on Thursday

Edward J. Thatcher, 70, of Bearsville, dean of American craftsmen and long an acknowledged authority in crafts tool design, died early this morning at his residence after a long illness.

Funeral for Mr. Thatcher will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Victor Lasher Funeral Home, Woodstock, with services to be conducted by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd. Burial will follow in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Woodstock.

Mr. Thatcher is survived by his widow, Isabel Howell Thatcher, and a son, Edward J., Jr.

Ned Thatcher, as he was known to many thousands of persons interested in arts and crafts throughout the world, was born January 11, 1883 in Morristown, N. J., and at an early age he developed a versatility in making things with his hands that decided his career.

One of Colony Founders

He went to Woodstock in his early manhood as one of the founders of the noted colony and numbered among his close personal friends three men since deceased, who charged Thatcher with the development of crafts in the village. These men were Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead, Bolton Brown and Hervey White.

Ned Thatcher taught metalwork 15 years in the department of Arts and Crafts, Columbia University, New York, and it was he who developed an important phase of occupational therapy for disabled veterans after World War 1. He devised a method for making tin can toys from discarded food containers, instructed his assistants in the technique, and went with them into veteran's hospitals to carry on the work among disabled soldiers, marines and sailors.

Ned Thatcher also conducted a summer school in Woodstock in metalcraft, wrote articles on ship models and miniature scenes for Ladies' Home Journal, and authored additional features in metalcraft for Popular Science and Popular Mechanics magazines. He also was author of an encyclopedia of tools for the firm of William Dixon, Newark, N. J., and this volume, repeated in many editions, has become a standard

Democrats Count Upon Past History To Decide House

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—A Republican claim that the GOP will strengthen its control of the House next year brought a Democratic retort today that it's too early to make predictions on the outcome of the 1954 voting.

Democrats are counting heavily on tradition to recapture House control in November 1954. Tradition says that the party in power loses seats in an off-year election, in which there is no presidential contest.

Only once in modern times, in 1934, did the voting deviate from that tradition. Democrats won seats in the balloting that year, which was the first mid-term election of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration.

Right now Democrats trail Republicans in the House by 6 seats, the count being 218 Republicans, 212 Democrats, 1 Independent and 4 vacancies. Three of the four vacancies were Republican seats in the 1952 election. All 435 seats are filled every two years.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), who, as chairman of the Republican Congressional Comittee, has the job of directing the GOP's bid for continued control of the House, claims Republicans will pick up 25 more seats next year.

He conceded, in an interview, the possibility of some Republican losses but said there would not be enough to change the balance of power.

"We are fighting to hold all we have and will pick up 25 new seats," Simpson said.

Simpson's Democratic counterpart, Rep. Mike Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, wasn't available for comment but his top political aide, Victor Hunt Harding, said:

"I am making no predictions at this time. It's too early to make predictions on an election more than a year away."

Other Democratic strategists claim that preliminary reports indicate President Eisenhower, while still popular with the voters, isn't as strong as he was a year ago.

Ulster County Fair Opens Wednesday At Forsyth Park

Booths Are Being Erected at Grounds — Public Hours Begin at 10 o'Clock

Forsyth Park was converted to a fairgrounds on Monday as tents were erected, a show ring marked off and other facilities put in place for the annual Ulster County Fair which opens Wednesday morning for a two-day stand.

Today the individual booths were being set up and commercial exhibitors of farm machinery, feed, household appliances and other supplies were beginning to move in.

By 9 a. m. Wednesday, the fair grounds will be the scene of much activity as the individual exhibitors — homemakers; vegetable, fruit and dairy farmers; 4-H Club youngsters—arrive to register their produce and get them ready for the judging and public viewing by 10 o'clock.

Hours for Public

Official hours for the public to visit the fair are from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Wednesday, and from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday.

With cattle stalls moved to a newly graded area, the animal show ring this year appears almost twice as large as in previous years.

The 4-H Clubs this year are expecting a total of 50 entries in the cattle classes, slightly fewer than in some previous years. There will be 24 booths, however, from 4-H Clubs from all over the county, representative of club work.

Club officials are particularly proud this year of the fact that five Ulster county girls qualified for State Fair competition in the dress review, and point out that this fact is an indication that the dress review at the county fair will be more meaningful than

Scouts Will Hold Fund Drive Tonight

A one-night drive for funds for the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held in the Kingston District tonight, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The Kingston District's quota is $9,210. The council is presently serving the highest membership ever attained, with 598 boys in the Kingston District alone and almost 2,000 boys taking part in the scouting program throughout the two-county Council area.

Edward J. Flynn Dies in Ireland

Former Chairman of Party Won Nomination for Roosevelt

Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 18 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, 61, former national chairman of the U. S. Democratic party, died in St. Vincent's Hospital here last night.

Many gave him credit, together with James J. Farley, for winning Franklin D. Roosevelt the presidential nomination in 1932.

The cause of death was not immediately announced. He had been ailing for some time, however, and his condition apparently worsened while on vacation here.

He sailed from New York for Ireland July 25 aboard the Mauretania. He went aboard the liner in a wheelchair. His wife and daughter, Sheila, 17, sailed with him.

Gunmen Seize $160,000 After Grabbing Bank Aide

Floral Park, Aug. 18 (AP)—Daring gunmen grabbed an assistant cashier on the lawn of his home this morning, forced him to open his bank's vault and escaped with $160,000.

They took the cashier with them, but dumped him out a few miles away.

Eric Gronewall, 44, told police that as he was leaving his Bellemore home to go to a branch of the Franklin National Bank, a man stepped out of the bushes.

He had a gun, and a canvass bag. Jamming the gun into Gronewall's side, he warned him not to cry out, adding "we know all about you and the bank."

He climbed into Gronewall's car with him and they drove to the bank. Gronewall became aware another car was following, but the gunman said sternly, "don't you dare turn around."

The gunman, about 30, dark hair and medium height, chatted as they drove along, said he had been in the army and before that worked in a bank, but didn't say where.

He had planned while he was in the army to rob another bank, he said, but when he got out found it had closed.

Arriving at the Franklin branch, the gunman marched Gronewall into the bank, forced him to open the vault and after taking the money marched him back to his car again.

They drove to Bellerose, Queens. Gronewall was told to get out. He never got a good look at the other man in the following car, he said. His own car was found a short distance away after he notified police of the holdup.

300 to Be Sworn At Mass Ceremony

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—The first and the last of 300 recruits enlisted in a special company of U. S. Marines in honor of the city's 300th anniversary were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon in Cavanagh's restaurant.

The 300 men, recruited in the metropolitan area, will be sworn into the Marine Corps at a mass ceremony on the steps of city hall at noon tomorrow by Brigadier General Reginald H. Ridgely, director of Marine Corps recruiting, Washington, D. C. Friends and relatives of the recruits, Mayor Impellitteri and other city officials are expected to attend the swearing-in ceremony.

The special marine company will be divided into four 75-man platoons, each representing one of the city's boroughs, with Manhattan and Staten Island combined. It will be known as "New York City's Tercentennial Marine Company."

The first man recruited for the company was Kevin Hoey, 17, of 939 68th street, Brooklyn. He enlisted last July 8.

The last man, enlisted last Friday and accepted yesterday, was Eugene Thomas Murphy, 20, of 216-08 115th Court, St. Albans, Queens.

Murphy said he has a brother, Sgt. John J. Murphy Jr., 25, serving with the marines in Korea. He said his brother joined the marines three years ago and was sent to Korea nine months ago with the First Marine Division, serving first with a tank outfit and later with the infantry.

Murphy said he wanted to join the corps before but his mother objected.

Ginger Ale Sherbet Cooler-Offer

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

North Carolina has its hot season, too. A friend of ours who grew up there perfected this delicate cooler-offer:

Ginger Ale Sherbet
(Makes 1 quart or 6 servings)

Two cups suger, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 cups chilled ginger ale, 1 quart liquefied non-fat dry milk, 2 egg whites.

Set refrigerator control at the coldest point. Combine sugar, lemon juice and ginger ale; stir gently. Stir in liquefied non-fat dry milk. Pour mixture into two refrigerator trays and freeze until mushy. Remove from trays and place in chilled bowl.

Beat with chilled rotary beater until fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Carefully fold egg whites into frozen mixture. Return to refrigerator trays and freeze until firm. If desired, serve with sweetened fresh or frozen strawberries or other fruit.

The use of non-fat dry milk puts economy and nutrition into the recipe. The California Foods Research Institute thought up this subtle and certainly different August specialty.

Avocado Ice Cream
(Makes about 1½ pints)

One very large avocado, ½ cup non-fat dry milk, 1 cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1/3 to ½ cup granulated sugar.

To prepare avocado cut fruit into halves and remove seed and skin. Force fruit through a sieve to make 1 cup pulp. Add non-fat dry milk, water and salt, and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Stir in sugar to taste. Turn into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature. Freeze until firm, stirring occasionally with a fork.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Fried chicken, gravy, ginger ale sherbet, whipped potatoes with cheese browned in casserole, broiled tomato halves, cabbage and celery salad, peach pie, coffee, milk.

His program, announced yesterday, calls for his arrival at the Marine terminal, La Guardia Field, at 6 a. m. (EST) from Denver, where he has been vacationing.

9 a. m.—Confers with Ogden Reid, editor of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

10 a. m.—Meets with J. Russel Sprague, GOP national committeeman from New York, and William L. Pfeiffer, Republican chairman of New York state.

10:30 a. m.—Meets with Harold Riegelman, Republican candidate for mayor of the city of New York.

11:30 a. m.—Lunches with U. S. Secretary of Labor Martin Durkin.

1 p. m.—Meets with members of the dedication committee for Baruch houses. Among them are Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Parks Commissioner Robert Moses, Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch and Journalist Herbert Bayard Swope.

These officials will accompany Eisenhower first to the Board of Elections, where he will register for the November municipal elections, and then to the Baruch houses and playground on Manhattan's East Side for the dedication ceremonies there.

Eisenhower will speak during the ceremonies which are scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. (EST).

Stang Urges Youth To Take Interest In All Government

The need for training young people to be ready to exercise their citizenship to the full extent in helping to run local, state and national government was stressed by Frederick H. Stang, county attorney, and Republican candidate for local mayor, in a talk at the Fifth Youth Forum of Camp Chi-Wan-Da, Ulster Park, Aug. 14.

Attorney Stang, who has served as a director of the American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State for many years, told of the meeting at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, in June. At that, he said, 273 girls from high schools in the state, gathered for intensive training in local and state government.

The camp is is a coeducational children's camp, owned and directed by Jacob I. Doroshkin and Michael M. Katzoff.

"We are stockholders of our municipal corporations," Stang told the campers and their parents. "We supply its funds and we must help manage it by our active interest and participation in local as well as national politics. Youth must be trained to take over this management."

Went to Washington

Miss Ellen Katzoff, a counselor at the camp, and moderator of the forum, was one of the girl leaders, who represented her school, Jamaica High School, New York, at the American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State this year, and she told of her experiences. She was one of the two nominees for the Girls' State governorship, and was selected by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent the state at the Girls' Nation in Washington, D. C., in July.

The latter was a convention of Girls State leaders from all the states for intensive training in national government.

Gives Report

Miss Katzoff told of both the state and national groups and of their inspiration and influence on the participants toward becoming actively engaged in good government activities in their communities. She told of meeting President Eisenhower at Washington and Governor Dewey in Albany.

The panel of campers and counselors were subjected to a variety of interesting questions from the floor on how youth can learn to participate in democratic government. There were many good answers to make this evening a memorable and important one for the youth of the camp.

Bohan Assisted

The program was preceded by choral rendition by the senior chorus of the camp.

Thomas M. Bohan, Civil Service executive secretary of Ulster county, a neighbor of the camp, arranged the program with Alexander Breinan, educational director of the camp. Bohan is also a director of Empire Boys State, the counterpart of Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion.

Dry Weather May Bring Cabbage Aphids

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 17 — Hot dry weather can spell trouble for cabbage growers by favoring development of aphids, warns Dr. G. E. R. Hervey, entomologist at Cornell's State Experiment Station here.

Cool moist weather, on the other hand, favors the spread of a fungus disease fatal to cabbage aphids, he says.

But outbreaks of aphids on cabbage are as unpredictable as the weather, asserts Doctor Hervey, adding that once the pest appears in devastating numbers it is exceedingly hard to combat.

"For that reason, cabbage growers might better play safe than be sorry later on by spraying or dusting now to prevent aphid infestations," he concludes.

In tests at the Experiment Station a one per cent parathion dust has given best results against cabbage aphids among the dust materials tried. By mixing a three per cent DDT dust with the parathion, thrips and caterpillars are also controlled along with the aphids, explains Doctor Hervey.

One to three dustings are required, depending upon the season and severity of the infestation.

Where a row crop low-gallonage sprayer is available, a spray containing one pint of 25 per cent parathion emulsion or one pint of 20 per cent TEPP to about 20 gallons of water for each acre will give excellent aphid control. These materials may also be combined with one quart of 25 per cent DDT emulsion for caterpillars on cabbage.

Painting, Sculpture Are Featured at Art Gallery

Woodstock, Aug. 17—The exhibition of recent work by members of the Woodstock Artists Association, which opened last Saturday afternoon at the Art Gallery, contains a number of pieces in both sculpture and painting. Harvey Fite's dynamic work in rich black walnut titled, And His Anger Waxed Hot, commands attention, as does Amy Gans Small's limestone sculpture which she titles, Triangle. The eye at the rear of the piece gives the clue to the story. Carl Walter's, Wort Hog, in grey and white glazes is another arresting piece.

In the group of paintings on view Ainslie Burke's, North River Bridge, is teeming with action and color and John Taylor's, Shore Line With Jetties, is dramatic and colorful. In another vein, Going Down, by James Turnbull is a study of a group of miner's faces in solemn mood. Bruce Currie's, The Stairway, is appealing with old-world charm and The Rocky Place, by Violet Sigismund is rich in subtle somber color. Florine Rensie's, Sunday Painters, is amusing in its quiet simplicity.

Playhouse Visitors See Artist's First Drafts

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Visitors to the Woodstock Playhouse this past week have been permitted a glimpse, through the exhibition in the lobby of black and white pencil and ink sketches by John Pike, into the preliminary plans of an artist. The black and white sketches were made in preparation for later finished watercolors. Among the scenes are cabins in North Carolina, as well as sketches of fishermen and wild animals.

Particularly appealing are Pike's sketches made while he was in Korea in 1945, the deftly handled jeeps crossing on ferry, the Korean woman with her heavy burden and the numerous local scenes. Other countries are also represented in a Cairo street scene, a fabulous tree in Jamaica, B. W. I., and the West in a lonely Colorado church.

Two Food Sales Planned

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Two more food sales have been planned for the remainder of the summer season by the ladies of the Lutheran Church. The program concluded with the Ravel Sonatine which the young artist performed with a sparkling youthful verve.

300 to Be Sworn At Mass Ceremony

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—The first and the last of 300 recruits enlisted in a special company of U. S. Marines in honor of the city's 300th anniversary were guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon in Cavanagh's restauront.

The 300 men, recruited in the metropolitan area, will be sworn into the Marine Corps at a mass ceremony on the steps of city hall at noon tomorrow by Brigadier General Reginald H. Ridgely, director of Marine Corps recruiting, Washington, D. C. Friends and relatives of the recruits, Mayor Impellitteri and other city officials are expected to attend the swearing-in ceremony.

The special marine company will be divided into four 75-man platoons, each representing one of the city's boroughs, with Manhattan and Staten Island combined. It will be known as "New York City's Tercentennial Marine Company."

The first man recruited for the company was Kevin Hoey, 17, of 939 68th street, Brooklyn. He enlisted last July 8.

The last man enlisted last Friday and accepted yesterday, was Eugene Thomas Murphy, 20, of 216-08 115th Court, St. Albans, Queens.

Murphy said he has a brother, Sgt. John J. Murphy Jr., 25, serving with the marines in Korea. He said his brother joined the marines three years ago and was sent to Korea nine months ago with the First Marine Division, serving first with a tank outfit and later with the infantry.

Murphy said he wanted to join the corps before but his mother objected.

Ginger Ale Sherbet Cooler-Offer

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

North Carolina has its hot season, too. A friend of ours who grew up there perfected this delicate cooler-offer:

Ginger Ale Sherbet
(Makes 1 quart or 6 servings)

Two cups suger, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 cups chilled ginger ale, 1 quart liquefied non-fat dry milk, 2 egg whites.

Set refrigerator control at the coldest point. Combine sugar, lemon juice and ginger ale; stir gently. Stir in liquefied non-fat dry milk. Pour mixture into two refrigerator trays and freeze until mushy. Remove from trays and place in chilled bowl.

Beat with chilled rotary beater until fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Carefully fold egg whites into frozen mixture. Return to refrigerator trays and freeze until firm. If desired, serve with sweetened fresh or frozen strawberries or other fruit.

The use of non-fat dry milk puts economy and nutrition into the recipe. The California Foods Research Institute thought up this subtle and certainly different August specialty.

Avocado Ice Cream
(Makes about 1½ pints)

One very large avocado, ½ cup non-fat dry milk, 1 cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1/3 to ½ cup granulated sugar.

To prepare avocado cut fruit into halves and remove seed and skin. Force fruit through a sieve to make 1 cup pulp. Add non-fat dry milk, water and salt, and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Stir in sugar to taste. Turn into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature. Freeze until firm, stirring occasionally with a fork.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Fried chicken, gravy, ginger ale sherbet, whipped potatoes with cheese browned in casserole, broiled tomato halves, cabbage and celery salad, peach pie, coffee, milk.

Eisenhower Has Crowded Program

New York, Aug. 18—President Eisenhower has a crowded schedule of appointments for his brief visit here tomorrow for the dedication of Baruch houses.

His program, announced yesterday, calls for his arrival at the Marine terminal, La Guardia Field, at 6 a. m. (EST) from Denver, where he has been vacationing.

Eisenhower will then go to his suite in the Waldorf-Astoria towers.

His appointment schedule there is as follows (all times Eastern Standard):

9 a. m.—Confers with Ogden Reid, editor of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

10 a. m.—Meets with J. Russel Sprague, GOP national committeeman from New York, and William L. Pfeiffer, Republican chairman of New York state.

10:30 a. m.—Meets with Harold Riegelman, Republican candidate for mayor of the city of New York.

11:30 a. m.—Lunches with U. S. Secretary of Labor Martin Durkin.

1 p. m.—Meets with members of the dedication committee for Baruch houses. Among them are Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Parks Commissioner Robert Moses, Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch and Journalist Herbert Bayard Swope.

These officials will accompany Eisenhower first to the Board of Elections, where he will register for the November municipal elections, and then to the Baruch houses and playground on Manhattan's East Side for the dedication ceremonies there.

Eisenhower will speak during the ceremonies which are scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. (EST).

Stang Urges Youth To Take Interest In All Government

The need for training young people to be ready to exercise their citizenship to the full extent in helping to run local, state and national government was stressed by Frederick H. Stang, county attorney, and Republican candidate for local mayor, in a talk at the Fifth Youth Forum of Camp Chi-Wan-Da, Ulster Park, Aug. 14.

Attorney Stang, who has served as a director of the American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State for many years, told of the meeting at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, in June. At that, he said, 273 girls from high schools in the state, gathered for intensive training in local and state government.

The camp is is a coeducational children's camp, owned and directed by Jacob I. Doroshkin and Michael M. Katzoff.

"We are stockholders of our municipal corporations," Stang told the campers and their parents. "We supply its funds and we must help manage it by our active interest and participation in local as well as national politics. Youth must be trained to take over this management."

Went to Washington

Miss Ellen Katzoff, a counselor at the camp, and moderator of the forum, was one of the girl leaders, who represented her school, Jamaica High School, New York, at the American Legion Auxiliary Girls' State this year, and she told of her experiences. She was one of the two nominees for the Girls' State governorship, and was selected by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent the state at the Girls' Nation in Washington, D. C., in July.

The latter was a convention of Girls State leaders from all the states for intensive training in national government.

Gives Report

Miss Katzoff told of both the state and national groups and of their inspiration and influence on the participants toward becoming actively engaged in good government activities in their communities. She told of meeting President Eisenhower at Washington and Governor Dewey in Albany.

The panel of campers and counselors were subjected to a variety of interesting questions from the floor on how youth can learn to participate in democratic government. There were many good answers to make this evening a memorable and important one for the youth of the camp.

Bohan Assisted

The program was preceded by choral rendition by the senior chorus of the camp.

Thomas M. Bohan, Civil Service executive secretary of Ulster county, a neighbor of the camp, arranged the program with Alexander Breinan, educational director of the camp. Bohan is also a director of Empire Boys State, the counterpart of Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion.

Dry Weather May Bring Cabbage Aphids

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 17 — Hot dry weather can spell trouble for cabbage growers by favoring development of aphids, warns Dr. G. E. R. Hervey, entomologist at Cornell's State Experiment Station here.

Cool moist weather, on the other hand, favors the spread of a fungus disease fatal to cabbage aphids, he says.

But outbreaks of aphids on cabbage are as unpredictable as the weather, asserts Doctor Hervey, adding that once the pest appears in devastating numbers it is exceedingly hard to combat.

"For that reason, cabbage growers might better play safe than be sorry later on by spraying or dusting now to prevent aphid infestations," he concludes.

In tests at the Experiment Station a one per cent parathion dust has given best results against cabbage aphids among the dust materials tried. By mixing a three per cent DDT dust with the parathion, thrips and caterpillars are also controlled along with the aphids, explains Doctor Hervey.

One to three dustings are required, depending upon the season and severity of the infestation.

Where a row crop low-gallonage sprayer is available, a spray containing one pint of 25 per cent parathion emulsion or one pint of 20 per cent TEPP to about 20 gallons of water for each acre will give excellent aphid control. These materials may also be combined with one quart of 25 per cent DDT emulsion for caterpillars on cabbage.

Painting, Sculpture Are Featured at Art Gallery

Woodstock, Aug. 17—The exhibition of recent work by members of the Woodstock Artists Association, which opened last Saturday afternoon at the Art Gallery, contains a number of pieces in both sculpture and painting. Harvey Fite's dynamic work in rich black walnut titled, And His Anger Waxed Hot, commands attention, as does Amy Gans Small's limestone sculpture which she titles, Triangle. The eye at the rear of the piece gives the clue to the story. Carl Walter's, Wort Hog, in grey and white glazes is another arresting piece.

In the group of paintings on view Ainslie Burke's, North River Bridge, is teeming with action and color and John Taylor's, Shore Line With Jetties, is dramatic and colorful. In another vein, Going Down, by James Turnbull is a study of a group of miner's faces in solemn mood. Bruce Currie's, The Stairway, is appealing with old-world charm and The Rocky Place, by Violet Sigismund is rich in subtle somber color. Florine Rensie's, Sunday Painters, is amusing in its quiet simplicity.

Playhouse Visitors See Artist's First Drafts

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Visitors to the Woodstock Playhouse this past week have been permitted a glimpse, through the exhibition in the lobby of black and white pencil and ink sketches by John Pike, into the preliminary plans of an artist. The black and white sketches were made in preparation for later finished watercolors. Among the scenes are cabins in North Carolina, as well as sketches of fishermen and wild animals.

Particularly appealing are Pike's sketches made while he was in Korea in 1945, the deftly handled jeeps crossing on ferry, the Korean woman with her heavy burden and the numerous local scenes. Other countries are also represented in a Cairo street scene, a fabulous tree in Jamaica, B. W. I., and the West in a lonely Colorado church.

Two Food Sales Planned

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Two more food sales have been planned for the remainder of the summer season by the ladies of the Lutheran Church. The next sale will be held on the church grounds on Mill Hill Road Saturday, Aug. 22, beginning at 10 a. m., and the other will be held Saturday, Sept. 5, at 10 a. m., also on the church grounds.

Student Gives Recital

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Miss Jane Van Winkle, pupil of Inez Carroll Richards, gave a piano recital at the Richards studio in Byrdcliffe last Friday afternoon. Miss Van Winkle opened the program with the Schumann Kreisleriana, Opus 16 which she performed with brilliance and ease. She was equally adept in her performance of the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 101. The program concluded with the Ravel Sonatine which the young artist performed with a sparkling youthful verve.

Odd Fellows Hold Fair

Woodstock, Aug. 17—There will be a roast turkey and sweet corn dinner at the Odd Fellows Lodge Hall in Bearsville Thursday, Aug. 20, at 5:30 p. m., at the annual fair and dinner of the Agapae Rebekah Lodge.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Aug. 17—Mrs. Grant Decker celebrated her birthday Sunday, Aug. 16.

Dick and Esther Gilman of Shady gave a party Friday night for 20 people.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Siegel drove to Tanglewood Sunday to attend the closing concert and ceremonies there.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams were the guests Sunday at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Boyer Gonzales.

VA Announces New Dental Care Rules

Presumption of service-connection for dental conditions which appear within a year after discharge or separation from service has been eliminated and new eligibility requirements for outpatient dental care for veterans have been set up under Public Law 149, 83rd Congress, F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration 286 Fair street, announced.

The new law authorizes outpatient dental care for three types of cases, providing applications are filed within one year of the enactment of the law, which was signed by the President July 27, 1953.

Eligibility must be established under one or more of the following three classes:

1. Veterans having service-connected compensable dental conditions or disabilities, which means they must be rated 10 per cent or more disabling.

2. Veterans having service-connected noncompensable dental conditions or disabilities where the dental condition or disability is shown to have existed at time of discharge; or

3. Veterans having a dental condition, whether or not service-connected, but medically determined to be aggravating a service-connected physical disability or injury.

Veterans who qualify for treatment under these conditions may be referred either on a fee basis to "home-town" participating dentists or to VA clinics. Applications may be procured by either applying in person or by writing to Veterans Administration office, 286 Fair street. The application to request is VA Form 10-2827.

Explosion Is Probed

New York, Aug. 18 (AP) — The navy today was investigating an explosion in the Brooklyn Navy Yard Sunday night. A three-man board of inquiry was appointed yesterday to probe the explosion which wrecked an officer's house. Two men were killed and nine others were injured in the blast. It was believed that an electrical short circuit ignited accumulated gas from a leaky heater in the house.

Calls Them Ridiculous

Panmunjom, Aug. 18 (AP)—A top Red Cross official from a neutral nation today described Communist prisoner atrocity charges as "ridiculous statements by silly boys." He gave this example by one Chinese POW: "He talked impassionately for an hour and it added up to the fact that he had been forced to take a bath. Then they cut his hair—and with scissors."

A frightened armadillo sometimes jumps straight into the air.

VA Announces New Dental Care Rules

Presumption of service-connection for dental conditions which appear within a year after discharge or separation from service has been eliminated and new eligibility requirements for outpatient dental care for veterans have been set up under Public Law 149, 83rd Congress, F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration 286 Fair street, announced.

The new law authorizes outpatient dental care for three types of cases, providing applications are filed within one year of the enactment of the law, which was signed by the President July 27, 1953.

Eligibility must be established under one or more of the following three classes:

1. Veterans having service-connected compensable dental conditions or disabilities, which means they must be rated 10 per cent or more disabling.

2. Veterans having service-connected noncompensable dental conditions or disabilities where the dental condition or disability is shown to have existed at time of discharge; or

3. Veterans having a dental condition, whether or not service-connected, but medically determined to be aggravating a service-connected physical disability or injury.

Veterans who qualify for treatment under these conditions may be referred either on a fee basis to "home-town" participating dentists or to VA clinics. Applications may be procured by either applying in person or by writing to Veterans Administration office, 286 Fair street. The application to request is VA Form 10-2827.

Explosion Is Probed

New York, Aug. 18 (AP) — The navy today was investigating an explosion in the Brooklyn Navy Yard Sunday night. A three-man board of inquiry was appointed yesterday to probe the explosion which wrecked an officer's house. Two men were killed and nine others were injured in the blast. It was believed that an electrical short circuit ignited accumulated gas from a leaky heater in the house.

Calls Them Ridiculous

Panmunjom, Aug. 18 (AP)—A top Red Cross official from a neutral nation today described Communist prisoner atrocity charges as "ridiculous statements by silly boys." He gave this example by one Chinese POW: "He talked impassionately for an hour and it added up to the fact that he had been forced to take a bath. Then they cut his hair—and with scissors."

A frightened armadillo sometimes jumps straight into the air.

IT'S EASY TO TELL AN AMERICAN

The fellow we're thinking about has a gas station just down the street a few blocks. He's worth taking a close look at, so let's move in.

You don't have to watch this fellow very long before you realize there's something special about him. Soon enough it hits you: he's a throwback to an earlier day, an earlier America.

Why? Because he has old-fashioned pride in doing a good job, in giving his customers superb service, in putting out a full day's work and more. He belongs to the era when skill in a craft was important, when most men found joy in personal mastery of their tasks.

Though it's hard to hear, it's true—nowadays too many of us play little games called Getting Through the Day or Just Getting By. The old pride of achievement is hard to find. A common slogan seems to be More Money for Less Work.

But there's more to this gas station fellow than we've told. He doesn't do any of these things in a showy way. His place isn't plastered with boastful placards dwelling on the high-quality service. The man himself simply trots about, quiet but friendly and smiling, doing a dozen extra little chores for you without comment.

Sometimes you don't discover till you're back in your garage that he's tightened this or that, or removed that old stain from your fender.

By talking around with others, you may learn that this busy boy got a Silver Star from the Army in World War II for jumping onto a flaming truck and tossing off some precious material. But you'll never get the story from him.

After a while you sense that all these traits are woven into a tight fabric of character. You realize that here, above all, is a man to be trusted, to count upon.

He doesn't cheat you, he doesn't overcharge you, he doesn't try to sell you something you don't need, he doesn't press for that dollar. He won't let you pay until a job's all finished. And when he tells you that you do need something done to your car, you can believe him.

He's got a family, his wife expects another baby, he's got a car, and they're just about to move into a new house. In his political thinking, he seems to shade toward the conservative side. Pretty average in all these respects.

But there's nothing average about him as a total human being. We get a lot of high-flown talk from public figures who have appointed themselves supreme judges of what makes a real American. Mostly they're looking in the mirror.

Forget them. Get in the car and drive down the street looking for this gas station fellow. He's short, stocky, balding, wears glasses. But it's easier to recognize him from the way he treats you. When you find him, you'll be right up against a good American for sure.

NEEDED IN FRANCE: STABILITY

Premier Laniel of France, who managed to form a government after the country went 37 days without one, hardly had taken the reins before he was greeted with widespread strikes crippling the French economy.

The strikes were touched off when the government announced certain economies in the pension system affecting postal employes. Smouldering dissatisfaction among many categories of workers burst its bonds, and unrest spread. Communist leaders, ever alert to opportunities to sow discord and confusion, moved in and labored to enlarge the government's difficulties.

No one familiar with the unenviable economic status of most French workers will fail to have some sympathy for their cause. But many would wish they could time their protests better.

France desperately needs political stability. These strikes suggest that the French don't much care whether they have a government or not. Yet if they don't start to care soon, they may wake up one day to find they don't have a country.

ESSENTIAL HUMAN RIGHTS

For more than a century, two forces manifested themselves not only in the western world but in all countries where men read and deal in ideas. One force has been the tremendous accretion of scientific knowledge; the other has been the effort of a few thinkers to relate the new knowledge and its explosive trends in thought to the art of living. While science mounts and has now reached beyond the alchemists's maddest dreams, our thoughts on life grow more confused, because somehow along the road to knowledge and reason, man has lost his bearings.

This era might be said to have been ushered into history by the French Revolution. Certainly by the 1848 revolutions in Western Europe, its most cogent design, Socialism in its multiple forms, had manifested itself. Also the opposition to the socialization of man, to his reduction to a creature of the state, had appeared.

Frederic Bastiat, writing in 1850, in his pamphlet, "The Law," said:

". . . The law . . . is the substitution of a common force for individual forces. And this common force is to do only what the individual forces have a natural and lawful right to do: to protect persons, liberties, and properties; to maintain the right of each, and to cause justice to reign over us all."

This is an individualist's reaction to the revolutionary Socialism of his period which sought, however worded, to make the state the master of an inert mass. Individualism can exist only to the extent to which a person may own and use private property. As that right decreases, his dependence upon the state increases. This has been manifested clearly in the United States and other countries where the state reduces the capacity of the individual to accumulate private capital and therefore to own property by taxation.

Bastiat places the highest of human rights in this order:

"Life, faculties, production—in other words, individuality, liberty, property—this is man. And in spite of the cunning of artful political leaders, these three gifts from God precede all human legislation, and are superior to it."

When the right to private ownership of property disappears altogether, as in the Soviet empire, slavery returns as a normal social institution. If some of those who are today called missing, in the Korean War, ever return to us, they will have a tale to tell of their own experiences as slaves.

Malenkov's recent address to the Russian Supreme Soviet only establishes the nature of this dependence. In effect, he said that Stalin faked Russian industrial and agricultural statistics; that the state failed to provide adequate quantities of consumer's goods for the people and that housing and other facilities were kept short in order that the state could tool up for the development of heavy industries mostly designed for war production.

Perhaps that is true in other countries, but the essence of the argument is that the state has reduced the rights of the individual and has opted for itself the authority to decide what one should wear, how much he should eat, where he should house his family.

Returning to the French philosopher, Bastiat, we find him saying:

"No society can exist unless the laws are respected to a certain degree. The safest way to make laws respected is to make them respectable. . . ."

As respect for the law decreases, revolution is born. Thus, during this century, from 1848 to this day, the world has been full of revolution and revolutionary ideas. These disturbances are not only due to dissatisfaction with government but they arise from an individual feeling of frustration, from a hunger for stability, from a desire to reject immorality. The efforts may be the reverse of the desired end, but the most potent stimulant for revolutionary thinking, if not action, is the absence of moral stability.

In my conversations during the past few years with several hundred American ex-Communists and fellow-travelers, I find that while many are antagonistic to the Russian pattern of life, for them the American pattern is also wanting. What they seek is a moral basis for life. That they have lost along the way and one reason for its loss is the substitution of the power of the state over the rights of the individual, which appears first in the matter of the ownership of one's own property.

In Russia, it was lost by confiscation; in the Western world, by excessive taxation.

PATIENT WITH VARICOSE VEINS

One of the conditions frequently present in examining recruits for military service is varicose veins. In "General Practice Review of Postgraduate Medicine," Drs. H. O. McPheeters and C. V. Kusz state that there are three necessary steps to the successful treatment of varicose veins of the leg. These steps are, (1) adequate examination, (2) adequate surgical procedure, and (3) adequate follow-up examination and treatment.

As there have been many disappointing results in the treatment of varicose veins, these physicians stress the importance of the examination before a certain type of surgical procedure is used. They attribute most failures in the treatment to inadequate or faulty examination before treatment is started. Only by means of adequate examination can the surgeon know the exact type of treatment that is best suited for the individual case.

The first thought in the examination of a patient with varicose veins is the inspection, palpation, and percussion of the varicose veins which enable the physician to learn general condition of veins, their distribution even under fat tissue, where the varicosities (knotted veins) are more readily felt and noting the pulsations, especially under fat tissue.

Drs. McPheeters and Kusz then describe the various tests in the different regions in which the varicose veins are located, by placing a tourniquet around the thigh and watching if the veins below it keep emptied, do not fill up with blood despite the application of the tourniquet.

"The tourniquet is placed in the first position above the knee and the patient stands up quickly. The veins in the lower leg are palpated (felt with the fingers). If there is rapid filling, even though the tourniquet is secure, it shows that the lesser branch of a large vein is involved or that there are incompetent veins below the tourniquet. The test is then repeated with the tourniquet just below the knee. The veins are again palpated and if they remain empty, the possibility of this lesser branch being involved must be considered. If the veins again fill rapidly, then an incompetent vein is present below the tourniquet.

The test is repeated, placing the tourniquet at various levels until the site is found at which veins below the tourniquet remain empty while the tourniquet is secured and fill rapidly once the tourniquet is removed. The test is then repeated, moving the tourniquet upward at each test until the area is found at which the veins will fill while the tourniquet is secure.

By above methods—palpation and tourniquet tests—the proper site at which to operate is found.

These tests prevent needless operations. It is no use removing or destroying the upper or superficial varicose veins if deeper veins are also varicosed.

Hills Yet to Be Recovered

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—The last speech which the late Sen. Robert A Taft of Ohio made on the U. S. Senate was a short statement on July 1, in support of a full $5.3 billion authorization for the foreign aid program.

Though Senator Taft had questioned the value of foreign aid, had spoke against or voted to reduce many Democratic administration proposals for foreign aid, it is considered significant that his last act in the Senate was to support President Eisenhower's request to continue this program on a big scale.

The issue before the Senate at the time was a proposal by Sen. Russell Long (D.-La.) to send the bill back to committee with instructions to cut the authorization by $2 billion. Senator Taft spoke against the Long motion.

Spoke Against Proposal

"Mister President," he said, "I supported the bill in committee, and I intend to vote for it with the understanding that I do not commit myself to any specific amount when the appropriations come before this body. It seems to me to be perfectly clear that the Appropriations Committee is is a far better position to determine what cuts can be made. This is largely a military aid program. It is closely, integrated with our own military program, so that the Appropriations Committee can consider both.

"In certain cases it may be cheaper for us in the long run to arm our allies than to provide additional American troops that might be necessary. It seems to me that the Appropriations Committee should consider this matter in detail. The committee can go over the various programs that are presented and can judge as to those programs. The only effect of recommitting the bill until July 15 would be to delay the Appropriations Committee. The committee cannot proceed until the authorization law is passed.

"I feel very strongly that the question of the amount of this program is one that ought to be determined in connection with the appropriation bill, and therefore I intend to vote, as I have voted heretofore on such bills, for the authorization, without the slightest commitment on my part. I do not think the Senate ought to consider that there is any commitment to appropriate the full sum authorized by the bill.

"It seems to me that it would only delay matters, and certainly I think the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana should be voted down, and that we should pass the bill. We should then seriously consider in connection with the appropriation bill the question of where savings can properly be made."

Last Taft Speech

That was all of Taft's last speech.

As a result of it, Senator Long withdrew his motion and put in a substitute to send the bill back to committee with instructions to cut the authorization by $1.5 billion.

After a short debate, this second Long amendment was defeated by a motion from Sen. Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) to lay the motion on the table. This was supported by a vote of 48 to 34, for which Senator Taft voted.

There is no indication how Senator Taft would have voted on foreign aid appropriations, or what cuts he might have supported. But it is fairly obvious that if Senator Taft had supported the Long motions to cut the authorization by $1.5 billion or $2 billion, this cut might have carried.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, becoming a little bit bored by having to be chauffeured around town in a big black government limousine, has recently taken to driving himself here and there on official business in his own two-door gray Buick.

The other day he drove over to the White House Executive Office Building for a conference on increasing the national debt limit to $290 billion. After that he drove up to Capitol Hill for a talk on the same subject with Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Finance Committee. But just before he arrived at the Senate Office Building, the secretary discovered that he had left his papers back at the Executive Office.

Mr. Humphrey got out to keep his date with Senator Millikin, then sent Nils Lennartson, his public information chief, back after the missing papers. When Lennartson got back near the White House, he couldn't find any place to park. Deciding to take a chance with a car that belonged to the secretary of the treasury, he left it on a crosswalk space and dashed in after the papers. He was gone only a minute, but when he returned, there was John Law on a motorcycle, looking the car over carefully.

Lennartson explained this was the secretary of the treasury's car.

"Who you kiddin'?" asked The Law. "He drives around in a big black limousine."

Lennartson told the whole story of what had happened.

"Let's see the car license," he was asked.

Lennartson explained he didn't have it.

"Is there anything at all legal about this?" asked The Law.

Lennartson said there wasn't but to prove his story, he showed the officer the papers he had, addressed to and signed by Secretary Humphrey.

Question Arises Who Is on Whose Side in United Nations Assembly?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 17—Who is on which "side" in the United Nations Assembly as it prepares to select the member countries of the so-called "political conference" that is supposed to settle the Korean problem?

India says she is "neutral" and is willing to be helpful to "both sides."

What does "neutral" mean in the UN when the American people have just been told that 140,000 American casualties were suffered in behalf of "the UN Command?"

The United States says it is willing to have Russia participate if the "other side" is agreeable to the proposal. In this sense, the "other side" is Red China and the puppet government of North Korea, which is in turn a creature of Soviet Russia.

British diplomats at the same time tell American reporters that the UN must be careful not to offend the Russians by implying that maybe the Soviet Union belongs on the "other side," which means that somebody may possibly suspect the Moscow regime was really a "belligerent" in the Korean War or aided a belligerent.

One wonders why all this rigamarole is necessary when Vishinsky frankly told the United Nations Assembly a few months ago that of course, the Soviet Union right along had been sending munitions to the Red Chinese and the North Koreans.

The plain fact of the matter is that the United Nations—an institution with an aura of respectability far from deserved if it is judged by its recent conduct—condones treason within its own ranks and is afraid to call treason by its right name lest it offend the "other side," the Soviet government.

To the average American who isn't encumbered by too much knowledge of the intrigues and double talk of diplomacy, the fact remains that war broke out in June 1950, and it was formally, officially, publicly, and specifically described by the UN as an aggression by the Communists of North Korea. Then in February 1951, after the Red Chinese had intervened in the war, the same UN declared the government of Red China an aggressor. The UN also had publicly by resolution called on all member nations to lend assistance to the UN action and to refrain from aiding the aggressors. Who, therefore, could be "neutral" and still be faithful to the UN objectives—to repel aggression?

So the first order of business in the UN is not to avoid or evade the issue about letting Soviet Russia participate but to try the Soviet regime on charges of treason and to expel such a regime from the UN as a menace to the future peace of the world.

The UN, however, today is dominated by some pussy-foot diplomats from Europe who still think that the way to get peace is to appease and bootlick the Russians. In due time the fallacy of that course will become evident, but only after a lot of time has been wasted which might have been spent in ostracizing the Soviet regime and applying the moral force of the world toward the ultimate goal of liberating the Russian people from their gangster government. The Russian people could be told that a free government would be a welcome member of the UN.

Double talk, however, will be the order of the day for some time to come as so-called diplomacy twists and turns and tries to keep from offending the present Soviet government.

Double talk still persists also in other phases of the Far Eastern situation. The other day, for instance it became known that a unit of the British Navy — an aircraft carrier — interfered with the blockade, imposed by the Chinese Nationalist government against Red China, by rescuing some merchant ships from the hands of the Nationalist Navy. Since Nationalist China is still a member of the UN and trying to carry out its obligations, why should the British Navy interfere with military operations undertaken by a UN member against a non-member which has been declared an aggressor?

The American government is about to lend or lease twenty-five destroyers to the Nationalist Navy. Congress authorized it by law just signed by the President. Does this mean the British Navy will seize these destroyers if they attempt to keep strategic goods from reaching Red China? Recently in the British Parliament assurances were given that the British Navy would be used to protect Ceylon, which has made a barter deal to supply rubber — a strategic commodity — to Red China. On which side is Great Britain herself?

The British diplomats often boast about their experience in world affairs, but they never have made a bigger miscalculation than in the assumption conveyed in their present policies that it is more important to have Red China in the UN than the United States. Republican leader Knowland has announced that the day that Red China goes in, a resolution will be sought in Congress to have the United States step out of the UN. Judging by the temper of Congress in both political parties, such a resolution will pass overwhelmingly. Then the Communist Chinese, the Communist Russians and the British appeasers, if the British people keep them in office, can run the UN to their hearts' content.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The New York city police department is just as good or just about as good as the FBI is in the jurisdiction originally assigned to it by Congress and recently expanded by an ambulance-chaser's "interpretation" of the carpetbaggers' civil rights law which was adopted in hot blood and malice against the prostrate south after the Civil War. The New York police have suffered from the misconduct of some bad actors but also, to my certain knowledge, has the FBI. But when a crooked policeman is turned up there is a great scandal in the papers whereas I have never seen a public announcement from the office of J. Edgar Hoover of the dismissal of any agent of his bureau for any offense. The FBI just quietly gets rid of them as a religious organization disposes of unfaithful members of the cloth and the reputation of the corps remains free of the slightest stain.

There is a hostile feeling between the department and the bureau, which is bad business and should be healed by dignified, honest dealings between Commissioner George Monaghan and Mr. Hoover. It is unnecessarily harsh between Chief Inspector Conrad Rothengast, a great policeman who has specialized in detective work for many years, and Hoover's right hand man, Lou Nichols. Neither of these excellent men goes so far as to cast aspersions on the honesty or competence of the other and the fuss seems to me to be a matter of temperament and corps loyalty. Rothengast is fiercely loyal to the New York police department and its good name and some of the best of his detectives are just as loyal to him.

The FBI also has a fine corps spirit but is by tradition very secretive in dealings with local police forces and holds itself generally above the cops. This distrust was inherent but it was heightened by depressing experiences with the local cops in St. Paul and Chicago, to name two cities where gangsters became dominant in local politics back in prohibition days. It should be corrected now as between the FBI and the New York police. The FBI has been picking on the cops and belittling them and the result is that they do not cooperate and try to trick one another. The people have no money to spare to pay for unnecessary inefficiency in the forces whom they look to for protection.

The FBI has sneered at the standards and methods by which the New York Police Department runs up its statistics on complaints, arrests, convictions and other departmental details. The FBI insists on a system formulated by the National Association of Chiefs of Police, which includes not only municipal and state police executives but chiefs of private plant security forces. It has no more official authority than the society of newspaper editors has in daily journalism. The City of New York has a right to choose its own system and it has no obligation to conform to the FBI's preferences. Moreover, whereas the New York cops do have to lay it on the line for the public, the FBI doesn't. They also have to deal with spur-of-the-moment crimes that FBI men can ignore.

This irritation was kicked up by pestiferous political "pressure groups" which are always alert to aggravate latent ill-will between undefined elements called "minorities" and other citizens.

Under the old civil rights law the federal government has power to horn into all manner of strictly local affairs and under

IT'S EASY TO TELL AN AMERICAN

The fellow we're thinking about has a gas station just down the street a few blocks. He's worth taking a close look at, so let's move in.

You don't have to watch this fellow very long before you realize there's something special about him. Soon enough it hits you: he's a throwback to an earlier day, an earlier America.

Why? Because he has old-fashioned pride in doing a good job, in giving his customers superb service, in putting out a full day's work and more. He belongs to the era when skill in a craft was important, when most men found joy in personal mastery of their tasks.

Though it's hard to hear, it's true—nowadays too many of us play little games called Getting Through the Day or Just Getting By. The old pride of achievement is hard to find. A common slogan seems to be More Money for Less Work.

But there's more to this gas station fellow than we've told. He doesn't do any of these things in a showy way. His place isn't plastered with boastful placards dwelling on the high-quality service. The man himself simply trots about, quiet but friendly and smiling, doing a dozen extra little chores for you without comment.

Sometimes you don't discover till you're back in your garage that he's tightened this or that, or removed that old stain from your fender.

By talking around with others, you may learn that this busy boy got a Silver Star from the Army in World War II for jumping onto a flaming truck and tossing off some precious material. But you'll never get the story from him.

After a while you sense that all these traits are woven into a tight fabric of character. You realize that here, above all, is a man to be trusted, to count upon.

He doesn't cheat you, he doesn't overcharge you, he doesn't try to sell you something you don't need, he doesn't press for that dollar. He won't let you pay until a job's all finished. And when he tells you that you do need something done to your car, you can believe him.

He's got a family, his wife expects another baby, he's got a car, and they're just about to move into a new house. In his political thinking, he seems to shade toward the conservative side. Pretty average in all these respects.

But there's nothing average about him as a total human being. We get a lot of high-flown talk from public figures who have appointed themselves supreme judges of what makes a real American. Mostly they're looking in the mirror.

Forget them. Get in the car and drive down the street looking for this gas station fellow. He's short, stocky, balding, wears glasses. But it's easier to recognize him from the way he treats you. When you find him, you'll be right up against a good American for sure.

NEEDED IN FRANCE: STABILITY

Premier Laniel of France, who managed to form a government after the country went 37 days without one, hardly had taken the reins before he was greeted with widespread strikes crippling the French economy.

The strikes were touched off when the government announced certain economies in the pension system affecting postal employes. Smouldering dissatisfaction among many categories of workers burst its bonds, and unrest spread. Communist leaders, ever alert to opportunities to sow discord and confusion, moved in and labored to enlarge the government's difficulties.

No one familiar with the unenviable economic status of most French workers will fail to have some sympathy for their cause. But many would wish they could time their protests better.

France desperately needs political stability. These strikes suggest that the French don't much care whether they have a government or not. Yet if they don't start to care soon, they may wake up one day to find they don't have a country.

ESSENTIAL HUMAN RIGHTS

For more than a century, two forces manifested themselves not only in the western world but in all countries where men read and deal in ideas. One force has been the tremendous accretion of scientific knowledge; the other has been the effort of a few thinkers to relate the new knowledge and its explosive trends in thought to the art of living. While science mounts and has now reached beyond the alchemists's maddest dreams, our thoughts on life grow more confused, because somehow along the road to knowledge and reason, man has lost his bearings.

This era might be said to have been ushered into history by the French Revolution. Certainly by the 1848 revolutions in Western Europe, its most cogent design, Socialism in its multiple forms, had manifested itself. Also the opposition to the socialization of man, to his reduction to a creature of the state, had appeared.

Frederic Bastiat, writing in 1850, in his pamphlet, "The Law," said:

". . . The law . . . is the substitution of a common force for individual forces. And this common force is to do only what the individual forces have a natural and lawful right to do: to protect persons, liberties, and properties; to maintain the right of each, and to cause justice to reign over us all."

This is an individualist's reaction to the revolutionary Socialism of his period which sought, however worded, to make the state the master of an inert mass. Individualism can exist only to the extent to which a person may own and use private property. As that right decreases, his dependence upon the state increases. This has been manifested clearly in the United States and other countries where the state reduces the capacity of the individual to accumulate private capital and therefore to own property by taxation.

Bastiat places the highest of human rights in this order:

"Life, faculties, production—in other words, individuality, liberty, property—this is man. And in spite of the cunning of artful political leaders, these three gifts from God precede all human legislation, and are superior to it."

When the right to private ownership of property disappears altogether, as in the Soviet empire, slavery returns as a normal social institution. If some of those who are today called missing, in the Korean War, ever return to us, they will have a tale to tell of their own experiences as slaves.

Malenkov's recent address to the Russian Supreme Soviet only establishes the nature of this dependence. In effect, he said that Stalin faked Russian industrial and agricultural statistics; that the state failed to provide adequate quantities of consumer's goods for the people and that housing and other facilities were kept short in order that the state could tool up for the development of heavy industries mostly designed for war production.

Perhaps that is true in other countries, but the essence of the argument is that the state has reduced the rights of the individual and has opted for itself the authority to decide what one should wear, how much he should eat, where he should house his family.

Returning to the French philosopher, Bastiat, we find him saying:

"No society can exist unless the laws are respected to a certain degree. The safest way to make laws respected is to make them respectable. . . ."

As respect for the law decreases, revolution is born. Thus, during this century, from 1848 to this day, the world has been full of revolution and revolutionary ideas. These disturbances are not only due to dissatisfaction with government but they arise from an individual feeling of frustration, from a hunger for stability, from a desire to reject immorality. The efforts may be the reverse of the desired end, but the most potent stimulant for revolutionary thinking, if not action, is the absence of moral stability.

In my conversations during the past few years with several hundred American ex-Communists and fellow-travelers, I find that while many are antagonistic to the Russian pattern of life, for them the American pattern is also wanting. What they seek is a moral basis for life. That they have lost along the way and one reason for its loss is the substitution of the power of the state over the rights of the individual, which appears first in the matter of the ownership of one's own property.

In Russia, it was lost by confiscation; in the Western world, by excessive taxation.

PATIENT WITH VARICOSE VEINS

One of the conditions frequently present in examining recruits for military service is varicose veins. In "General Practice Review of Postgraduate Medicine," Drs. H. O. McPheeters and C. V. Kusz state that there are three necessary steps to the successful treatment of varicose veins of the leg. These steps are, (1) adequate examination, (2) adequate surgical procedure, and (3) adequate followup examination and treatment.

As there have been many disappointing results in the treatment of varicose veins, these physicians stress the importance of the examination before a certain type of surgical procedure is used. They attribute most failures in the treatment to inadequate or faulty examination before treatment is started. Only by means of adequate examination can the surgeon know the exact type of treatment that is best suited for the individual case.

The first thought in the examination of a patient with varicose veins is the inspection, palpation, and percussion of the varicose veins which enable the physician to learn general condition of veins, their distribution even under fat tissue, where the varicosities (knotted veins) are more readily felt and noting the pulsations, especially under fat tissue.

Drs. McPheeters and Kusz then describe the various tests in the different regions in which the varicose veins are located, by placing a tourniquet around the thigh and watching if the veins below it keep emptied, do not fill up with blood despite the application of the tourniquet.

"The tourniquet is placed in the first position above the knee and the patient stands up quickly. The veins in the lower leg are palpated (felt with the fingers). If there is rapid filling, even though the tourniquet is secure, it shows that the lesser branch of a large vein is involved or that there are incompetent veins below the tourniquet. The test is then repeated with the tourniquet just below the knee. The veins are again palpated and if they remain empty, the possibility of this lesser branch being involved must be considered. If the veins again fill rapidly, then an incompetent vein is present below the tourniquet.

The test is repeated, placing the tourniquet at various levels until the site is found at which veins below the tourniquet remain empty while the tourniquet is secured and fill rapidly once the tourniquet is removed. The test is then repeated, moving the tourniquet upward at each test until the area is found at which the veins will fill while the tourniquet is secure.

By above methods—palpation and tourniquet tests—the proper site at which to operate is found.

These tests prevent needless operations. It is no use removing or destroying the upper or superficial varicose veins if deeper veins are also varicosed.

Hills Yet to Be Recovered

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—The last speech which the late Sen. Robert A Taft of Ohio made on the U. S. Senate was a short statement on July 1, in support of a full $5.3 billion authorization for the foreign aid program.

Though Senator Taft had questioned the value of foreign aid, had spoke against or voted to reduce many Democratic administration proposals for foreign aid, it is considered significant that his last act in the Senate was to support President Eisenhower's request to continue this program on a big scale.

The issue before the Senate at the time was a proposal by Sen. Russell Long (D.-La.) to send the bill back to committee with instructions to cut the authorization by $2 billion. Senator Taft spoke against the Long motion.

Spoke Against Proposal

"Mister President," he said, "I supported the bill in committee, and I intend to vote for it with the understanding that I do not commit myself to any specific amount when the appropriations come before this body. It seems to me to be perfectly clear that the Appropriations Committee is is a far better position to determine what cuts can be made. This is largely a military aid program. It is closely, integrated with our own military program, so that the Appropriations Committee can consider both.

"In certain cases it may be cheaper for us in the long run to arm our allies than to provide additional American troops that might be necessary. It seems to me that the Appropriations Committee should consider this matter in detail. The committee can go over the various programs that are presented and can judge as to those programs. The only effect of recommitting the bill until July 15 would be to delay the Appropriations Committee. The committee cannot proceed until the authorization law is passed.

"I feel very strongly that the question of the amount of this program is one that ought to be determined in connection with the appropriation bill, and therefore I intend to vote, as I have voted heretofore on such bills, for the authorization, without the slightest commitment on my part. I do not think the Senate ought to consider that there is any commitment to appropriate the full sum authorized by the bill.

"It seems to me that it would only delay matters, and certainly I think the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana should be voted down, and that we should pass the bill. We should then seriously consider in connection with the appropriation bill the question of where savings can properly be made."

Last Taft Speech

That was all of Taft's last speech.

As a result of it, Senator Long withdrew his motion and put in a substitute to send the bill back to committee with instructions to cut the authorization by $1.5 billion.

After a short debate, this second Long amendment was defeated by a motion from Sen. Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) to lay the motion on the table. This was supported by a vote of 48 to 34, for which Senator Taft voted.

There is no indication how Senator Taft would have voted on foreign aid appropriations, or what cuts he might have supported. But it is fairly obvious that if Senator Taft had suoported the Long motions to cut the authorization by $1.5 billion or $2 billion, this cut might have carried.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, becoming a little bit bored by having to be chauffeured around town in a big black government limousine, has recently taken to driving himself here and there on official business in his own two-door gray Buick.

The other day he drove over to the White House Executive Office Building for a conference on increasing the national debt limit to $290 billion. After that he drove up to Capitol Hill for a talk on the same subject with Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Finance Committee. But just before he arrived at the Senate Office Building, the secretary discovered that he had left his papers back at the Executive Office.

Mr. Humphrey got out to keep his date with Senator Millikin, then sent Nils Lennartson, his public information chief, back after the missing papers. When Lennartson got back near the White House, he couldn't find any place to park. Deciding to take a chance with a car that belonged to the secretary of the treasury, he left it on a crosswalk space and dashed in after the papers. He was gone only a minute, but when he returned, there was John Law on a motorcycle, looking the car over carefully.

Lennartson explained this was the secretary of the treasury's car.

"Who you kiddin'?" asked The Law. "He drives around in a big black limousine."

Lennartson told the whole story of what had happened.

"Let's see the car license," he was asked.

Lennartson explained he didn't have it.

"Is there anything at all legal about this?" asked The Law.

Lennartson said there wasn't but to prove his story, he showed the officer the papers he had, addressed to and signed by Secretary Humphrey.

Question Arises Who Is on Whose Side in United Nations Assembly?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 17—Who is on which "side" in the United Nations Assembly as it prepares to select the member countries of the so-called "political conference" that is supposed to settle the Korean problem?

India says she is "neutral" and is willing to be helpful to "both sides."

What does "neutral" mean in the UN when the American people have just been told that 140,000 American casualties were suffered in behalf of "the UN Command?"

The United States says it is willing to have Russia participate if the "other side" is agreeable to the proposal. In this sense, the "other side" is Red China and the puppet government of North Korea, which is in turn a creature of Soviet Russia.

British diplomats at the same time tell American reporters that the UN must be careful not to offend the Russians by implying that maybe the Soviet Union belongs on the "other side," which means that somebody may possibly suspect the Moscow regime was really a "belligerent" in the Korean War or aided a belligerent.

One wonders why all this rigamarole is necessary when Vishinsky frankly told the United Nations Assembly a few months ago that of course, the Soviet Union right along had been sending munitions to the Red Chinese and the North Koreans.

The plain fact of the matter is that the United Nations—an institution with an aura of respectability far from deserved if it is judged by its recent conduct—condones treason within its own ranks and is afraid to call treason by its right name lest it offend the "other side," the Soviet government.

To the average American who isn't encumbered by too much knowledge of the intrigues and double talk of diplomacy, the fact remains that war broke out in June 1950, and it was formally, officially, publicly, and specifically described by the UN as an aggression by the Communists of North Korea. Then in February 1951, after the Red Chinese had intervened in the war, the same UN declared the government of Red China an aggressor. The UN also had publicly by resolution called on all member nations to lend assistance to the UN action and to refrain from aiding the aggressors. Who, therefore, could be "neutral" and still be faithful to the UN objectives—to repel aggression?

So the first order of business in the UN is not to avoid or evade the issue about letting Soviet Russia participate but to try the Soviet regime on charges of treason and to expel such a regime from the UN as a menace to the future peace of the world.

The UN, however, today is dominated by some pussy-foot diplomats from Europe who still think that the way to get peace is to appease and bootlick the Russians. In due time the fallacy of that course will become evident, but only after a lot of time has been wasted which might have been spent in ostracizing the Soviet regime and applying the moral force of the world toward the ultimate goal of liberating the Russian people from their gangster government. The Russian people could be told that a free government would be a welcome member of the UN.

Double talk, however, will be the order of the day for some time to come as so-called diplomacy twists and turns and tries to keep from offending the present Soviet government.

Double talk still persists also in other phases of the Far Eastern situation. The other day, for instance, it became known that a unit of the British Navy — an aircraft carrier — interfered with the blockade, imposed by the Chinese Nationalist government against Red China, by rescuing some merchant ships from the hands of the Nationalist Navy. Since Nationalist China is still a member of the UN and trying to carry out its obligations, why should the British Navy interfere with military operations undertaken by a UN member against a non-member which has been declared an aggressor?

The American government is about to lend or lease twenty-five destroyers to the Nationalist Navy. Congress authorized it by law just signed by the President. Does this mean the British Navy will seize these destroyers if they attempt to keep strategic goods from reaching Red China? Recently in the British Parliament assurances were given that the British Navy would be used to protect Ceylon, which has made a barter deal to supply rubber — a strategic commodity — to Red China. On which side is Great Britain herself?

The British diplomats often boast about their experience in world affairs, but they never have made a bigger miscalculation than in the assumption conveyed in their present policies that it is more important to have Red China in the UN than the United States. Republican leader Knowland has announced that the day that Red China goes in, a resolution will be sought in Congress to have the United States step out of the UN. Judging by the temper of Congress in both political parties, such a resolution will pass overwhelmingly. Then the Communist Chinese, the Communist Russians and the British appeasers, if the British people keep them in office, can run the UN to their hearts' content.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The New York city police department is just as good or just about as good as the FBI is in the jurisdiction originally assigned to it by Congress and recently expanded by an ambulance-chaser's "interpretation" of the carpetbaggers' civil rights law which was adopted in hot blood and malice against the prostrate south after the Civil War. The New York police have suffered from the misconduct of some bad actors but also, to my certain knowledge, has the FBI. But when a crooked policeman is turned up there is a great scandal in the papers whereas I have never seen a public announcement from the office of J. Edgar Hoover of the dismissal of any agent of his bureau for any offense. The FBI just quietly gets rid of them as a religious organization disposes of unfaithful members of the cloth and the reputation of the corps remains free of the slightest stain.

There is a hostile feeling between the department and the bureau, which is bad business and should be healed by dignified, honest dealings between Commissioner George Monaghan and Mr. Hoover. It is unnecessarily harsh between Chief Inspector Conrad Rothengast, a great policeman who has specialized in detective work for many years, and Hoover's right hand man, Lou Nichols. Neither of these excellent men goes so far as to cast aspersions on the honesty or competence of the other and the fuss seems to me to be a matter of temperament and corps loyalty. Rothengast is fiercely loyal to the New York police department and its good name and some of the best of his detectives are just as loyal to him.

The FBI also has a fine corps spirit but is by tradition very secretive in dealings with local police forces and holds itself generally above the cops. This distrust was inherent but it was heightened by depressing experiences with the local cops in St. Paul and Chicago, to name two cities where gangsters became dominant in local politics back in prohibition days. It should be corrected now as between the FBI and the New York police. The FBI has been picking on the cops and belittling them and the result is that they do not cooperate and try to trick one another. The people have no money to spare to pay for unnecessary inefficiency in the forces whom they look to for protection.

The FBI has sneered at the standards and methods by which the New York Police Department runs up its statistics on complaints, arrests, convictions and other departmental details. The FBI insists on a system formulated by the National Association of Chiefs of Police, which includes not only municipal and state police executives but chiefs of private plant security forces. It has no more official authority than the society of newspaper editors has in daily journalism. The City of New York has a right to choose its own system and it has no obligation to conform to the FBI's preferences. Moreover, whereas the New York cops do have to lay it on the line for the public, the FBI doesn't. They also have to deal with spur-of-the-moment crimes that FBI men can ignore.

This irritation was kicked up by pestiferous political "pressure groups" which are always alert to aggravate latent ill-will between undefined elements called "minorities" and other citizens.

Under the old civil rights law the federal government has power to horn into all manner of strictly local affairs and under

Shokan

Shokan, Aug. 18—Harold Corwin of Astoria is spending a vacation with his wife and children at the family summer home near the Reformed Church. The Corwins had as their weekend guests the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Maus of Elmont; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caramico, Bayside, and Gerald Sampson of Kingston. Gerald, son of Gilbert and Gladys Sampson, is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright, former residents of the Winchell's Falls neighborhood of Brown's Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carpenter who have been rusticating at the James Carpenters two weeks planned to return to Richmond Hill today. The couple will leave soon on a trip to Minneapolis where they expect to visit Helen Haberman of Oak Hill, Greene county, who is connected with the University of Minnesota and with whom they made a trip to Yosemite Park last year.

The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Coons have returned to the Reformed parsonage following a vacation sojourn at Ocean Grove, N. J.

Callers in the village last week included Frank S. Born, Minneapolis resident, who used to come to the Olive Bridge sector as a small boy. His mother before marriage was Adaline Evans and her girlhood home was near the "Uncle Jimmy" Hill place. Frank, 78, had not been here in 65 years and thus was experiencing considerable difficulty in locating what remains of the old landmarks in the reservoir country. He was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Rohwedder and their three children. They planned to visit New York and Washington, D. C., on the way home.

Volunteer firemen from several communities in the Onteora School district participated in a practice run Sunday. New York city police from the Ashokan precinct handled traffic at the busy Winchell's Corner while the fire trucks and smoke-eaters' cars were buzzing through the village on their way up the trail.

Robert Henne of Palenville was a business caller here Friday. Bob is employed as a driver by the F. B. Matthews & Co., Kingston.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Terms Are Fixed For Trustees; Fair Netted $7,200

Woodstock, Aug. 18—At the meeting of the trustees of the Woodstock Library, held August 13, the first action was to draw lots to determine the length of the term for which the four new trustees were elected. The results were: George Compton, four years; Mrs. Hilda Cohn, three years; Lewis Wilson, two years, and Alf Evers, one year.

Herbert Wyman, the treasurer, reported that the net proceeds of the fair were $7200. Mrs. Herman Oxhandler, president, made a report on the fair which included many suggestions concerning equipment needed for future fairs. It was suggested that more tables be purchased in order to avoid further borrowing and carting of tables. Mrs. Oxhandler also suggested that a tea be held for the chairmen and co-chairmen who served at the recent fair. It was voted to hold the tea.

Reports on Changes

Miss Frances Rogers, administration chairman, reported on the proposed necessary changes in the library building which included louvres and fans to ventilate the attic. The necessary work was voted. New bylaws which will be in keeping with the State Education law were distributed for study by the trustees. They will be voted on in September.

Mrs. Wells, the incoming librarian, has selected Mrs. Orestes Cleveland as her assistant. The board approved. Mrs. Cleveland will take over when Mrs. Schroeder leaves for Florida. The possibility of having the Library open five afternoons (instead of four) and one evening a week was discussed favorably but action was deferred.

The Ulster County Library Association is becoming active again. A meeting is planned for September and several trustees will attend. Courses for librarians are planned. A committee consisting of Miss Anita Smith, Mrs. William Shirey and Alf Evers was appointed to plan Children's Book Week activities.

A former member of the Dudley-Maslow-Bales dance company, Miss Hodgin had a featured role in Doris Humphrey's Poor Eddy, performed at Columbia University this spring. She was the choreographer for a New York production of Kurt Weill's opera, Down In The Valley, and for the Equity Library production of Within the Gates.

As Pegler Sees It

this power the Department of Justice and the FBI have been harassing and worrying decent New York policemen by hauling them before federal grand juries in cases which have been absurd exaggerations. In some cases, the FBI has persevered even after the state grand juries have indicted the offenders and upheld the cops and trial juries have convicted the prisoners as charged.

When Governors Fine of Pennsylvania and Battle of Virginia let out a yell against the intrusion of the FBI into state affairs and Tom Dewey of New York furthermored their squawk at the governors' consistory in Seattle, the issue deserved more attention than it got. Hardly any violence upon any individual by a cop or warden is outside the civil rights law. If an inmate of a state insane asylum goes haywire and gets hurt in a fracas with the keepers, a fine question can be raised whether the keepers used a trifle more force than was absolutely necessary. The same question can be raised every time a policeman has to twist a drunk's arm or ram a mugger in the belly with the first two fingers to make his tongue pop out and relax him. But if the cop uses just a shade less than sufficient force and loses his prisoner he may be charged with incompetence or cowardice. As a citizen minding my own business on dark streets at night I want the cops to use a trifle more force than might be the exact amount necessary rather than a trifle less.

In Chicago two uniformed policemen were actually fired from the force for using the fingers on a man they had been compelled to arrest for disorderly conduct because, in the presence of a crowd, he dared them to. When that happens the cops have got to make the pinch. This man resisted when they tried to put him in their police car so they gave him the business and the fact that he was a navy veteran with some disability got him acquitted at the trial. These two policemen and a number of others have been sued for large damages in the civil courts and some of them will have to pay their own legal costs. Incidentally, this outrage raised such a row that the cops were reinstated.

Keep that up and the cops won't interfere in anything less than a massacre. The nature of this "veteran's" disability was not published so it could have been incurred in some incident not even remotely concerned with enemy action. On Long Island recently some strikers kicked up a wild riot and the pictures showed ten uniformed policemen delicately restraining one tough who should have been belted out with a bat. They are getting afraid to do their duty and they look very bad in the pictures.

The FBI has plenty to do without messing in the crap-shooting cases in big cities and sniffing the kettles in the kitchens of lunatic asylums. If it has men to spare for such mischief, it is overstaffed and its appropriation should be reduced.

There is no sensible reason for this bickering and it ought to be stopped pro bono publico.

Shokan

Shokan, Aug. 18—Harold Corwin of Astoria is spending a vacation with his wife and children at the family summer home near the Reformed Church. The Corwins had as their weekend guests the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Maus of Elmont; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caramico, Bayside, and Gerald Sampson of Kingston. Gerald, son of Gilbert and Gladys Sampson, is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright, former residents of the Winchell's Falls neighborhood of Brown's Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carpenter who have been rusticating at the James Carpenters two weeks planned to return to Richmond Hill today. The couple will leave soon on a trip to Minneapolis where they expect to visit Helen Haberman of Oak Hill, Greene county, who is connected with the University of Minnesota and with whom they made a trip to Yosemite Park last year.

The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Coons have returned to the Reformed parsonage following a vacation sojourn at Ocean Grove, N. J.

Callers in the village last week included Frank S. Born, Minneapolis resident, who used to come to the Olive Bridge sector as a small boy. His mother before marriage was Adaline Evans and her girlhood home was near the "Uncle Jimmy" Hill place. Frank, 78, had not been here in 65 years and thus was experiencing considerable difficulty in locating what remains of the old landmarks in the reservoir country. He was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Rohwedder and their three children. They planned to visit New York and Washington, D. C., on the way home.

Volunteer firemen from several communities in the Onteora School district participated in a practice run Sunday. New York city police from the Ashokan precinct handled traffic at the busy Winchell's Corner while the fire trucks and smoke-eaters' cars were buzzing through the village on their way up the trail.

Robert Henne of Palenville was a business caller here Friday. Bob is employed as a driver by the F. B. Matthews & Co., Kingston.

Terms Are Fixed For Trustees; Fair Netted $7,200

Woodstock, Aug. 18—At the meeting of the trustees of the Woodstock Library, held August 13, the first action was to draw lots to determine the length of the term for which the four new trustees were elected. The results were: George Compton, four years; Mrs. Hilda Cohn, three years; Lewis Wilson, two years, and Alf Evers, one year.

Herbert Wyman, the treasurer, reported that the net proceeds of the fair were $7200. Mrs. Herman Oxhandler, president, made a report on the fair which included many suggestions concerning equipment needed for future fairs. It was suggested that more tables be purchased in order to avoid further borrowing and carting of tables. Mrs. Oxhandler also suggested that a tea be held for the chairmen and co-chairmen who served at the recent fair. It was voted to hold the tea.

Reports on Changes

Miss Frances Rogers, administration chairman, reported on the proposed necessary changes in the library building which included louvres and fans to ventilate the attic. The necessary work was voted. New bylaws which will be in keeping with the State Education law were distributed for study by the trustees. They will be voted on in September.

Mrs. Wells, the incoming librarian, has selected Mrs. Orestes Cleveland as her assistant. The board approved. Mrs. Cleveland will take over when Mrs. Schroeder leaves for Florida. The possibility of having the Library open five afternoons (instead of four) and one evening a week was discussed favorably but action was deferred.

The Ulster County Library Association is becoming active again. A meeting is planned for September and several trustees will attend. Courses for librarians are planned. A committee consisting of Miss Anita Smith, Mrs. William Shirey and Alf Evers was appointed to plan Children's Book Week activities.

Bus Plunges Down Embankment

No one was seriously injured when a Shaver bus plunged down a 50-foot embankment at Creek Locks about 10 a. m. Monday. The driver, David Salmi, of Rifton jumped from the vehicle, when it suddenly "sheared to one side, and left the road," he told the sheriff's office. There were no passengers, he said. Salmi was driving toward Creek Locks at the time of the accident. He went to the Benedictine Hospital for a checkup and was released the same day, after treatment for minor injuries, hospital authorities reported. (Freeman photo)

Victims of Quake Need U. S. Help

The American Red Cross has been asked to assume the responsibility of collecting relief funds for victims of the recent earthquakes in Greece, according to a communication received by Ulster County Chapter.

Mrs. Samuel J. Adams of Saugerties, chairman, said the local chapter received a telegram for donations, which may be sent to Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, 308 Clinton avenue, this city.

Many Sufferers

The plea for donations came from the Greek ambassador to the United States, who made it on request of the Greek government and the Greek Red Cross.

It was stressed that landslides and fires, following the quakes, resulted in tragic disaster and misery for the Greek nation. More than 1,000 have been killed and at least 10,000 made homeless, it is estimated. Figures may run even higher, it is presumed, when broken communication lines are repaired and complete reports are available.

Two Are Returned To Jail on Charges

A man and woman who completed their jail terms today on traffic convictions were re-booked at the sheriff's office this morning on other charges.

Move Is Underway To Join Districts

A petition is being circulated among the residents in Bearsville, Zena and Woodstock No. 2 school districts asking the State Commissioner of Education to approve consolidation of the three districts, it was learned today.

If the petition is approved by the commissioner, the three districts will decide whether to close the Bearsville and Zena schools and consolidate with Woodstock, or to continue as they are.

A majority vote in each district is required to effect consolidation. The voting is customarily done in one central location and at one time, but each district's results are tabulated separately.

Mrs. Laurence Shultis, Bearsville school trustee, reported today that she had received numerous inquiries concerning a rumor to the effect that the state "is forcing the Bearsville school to close." She said she received a letter from the district superintendent stating that there is no law that can force the closing of the school, nor in the opinion of the superintendent is there ever likely to be such a law.

Council Favors Fire Air Sirens, Sewer Vote Tonight

A Common Council committee report favoring replacement of the city's old fire alarm system was adopted in a recessed council session last night, but the absence of six aldermen forced adjournment until tonight to act on a bond ordinance to cover $11,000 spent for repair of a Greenkill avenue sewer break.

The Aug. 4 meeting was recessed specifically to act on the bond ordinance after a finance committee report favoring the bond issue was adopted. It still needs approval of a laws and rules committee and a final vote by the council on the bond issue. A two-thirds' vote is required.

The sewer break on Greenkill near Clinton avenue was repaired in about a week by Contractor James Berardi.

$6,400 for Air Horns

An estimated $6,400 will be needed to replace the city's 60-year-old bell fire alarm system with modern air horns. A finance committee report favoring the change, was adopted. The committee recommended adoption of its report "until an appropriate bond ordinance can be presented" to the council.

Replacement of the old bell system, which has been wearing out gradually, has been recommended by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and the fire commissioners. The air horn system, officials said, could also be used for civilian defense alarms.

No Polling Change

The aldermen voted approval of the polling places which had been submitted at the Aug. 4 meeting, but held over for consideration of a recommended change in the second district of the 10th ward.

It had been suggested that the Mannerchor hall on Greenkill avenue be used instead of the S. R. Brenner place at 72 Clinton avenue, but Alderman James K. Ryan, who said he had not been consulted as to the proposed change, indicated he saw no reason for making it without further discussion with Brenner, who could not be reached when the regular meeting was in progress. The list, as approved, included the Brenner place instead of Mannerchor hall. All others are the same.

Edmund T. Cloonan, acting superintendent of the water department, was granted permission to attend the meeting of the New York Section, American Water Works Association at Lake Placid, Sept. 10 and 11.

The aldermen absent were Radel, third ward; Wenzel, fourth; Coughlin, seventh; Dolan, eighth; Relyea, 11th and Parmelee, 13th. It appears that at least a few of the absentees thought the meeting was to be held on Tuesday, the regular council meeting night, instead of Monday. Relyea is on vacation and Parmelee reported illness.

The seven present, plus Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, were: Mayes, first ward; Storms, second; Perry, fifth; Norton, sixth; Golden, ninth; Ryan, 10th and Cullum, 12th.

Alderman Ryan offered a resolution asking that lines be painted on Greenkill avenue to prevent the parking of cars too close to the Wallkill Valley railroad tracks, and another asking for one-hour parking in front of the Nicholas LaLima barber shop at 77 Greenkill avenue.

Alderman Perry asked that the property of Dominic and Evelyn M. Perry on the west side of Lindsley avenue be given a business zone designation.

Edward Thatcher

Strong Zest for Life

Ned Thatcher was a man with a keen sense of humor and the rural life of Woodstock township was a perfect background for his love of the hard working folk who farmed the area.

For many years he conducted a column, called The Barzeville Bugle, in Hue and Cry, summer publication, under the by-line of Iddie Flitcher, and it was in this paper that he expressed the full flavor of life in Woodstock as he saw it—and he never saw it maliciously.

One of the experiences Ned Thatcher enjoyed telling about occurred in the early days of radio. At the time he, Albert Cashdollar and John Peper, the latter two of Woodstock, were working on a loudspeaker and microphone hookup attached to a phonograph at the Cashdollar residence on the side of Overlook mountain. They had played several records and were satisfied with the volume which Ned described as "loud enough to blast everyone out of the village." After a time they tired of playing records and fell to discussing village affairs in general, and in a salty fashion. A few minutes later a woman hurried to the Cashdolar house and implored Mrs. Cashdollar to tell those men to "turn that thing off, if they've got to use that kind of language." Ned said they turned it off, but he said they took an "unmerciful beating" in the village a long time afterward.

Did Work at Local Armory

Some of Ned Thatcher's outstanding work may be seen in the New York State Armory, Manor avenue, where he did the National Guard insignia inlaid in bronze. He also wrought a large aluminum punch bowl for the armory, and made a duplicate for Herbert I. Lehman, then governor of New York.

For a year during World War 2 he conducted classes in metalcraft at the Kingston Vocational School under Hubert Hoderath, and left there to go into war work at De Laval, Poughkeepsie. His later years found him back at Bearsville working in his own shop, designing tools, making candle sconces and other items, and preparing magazine articles.

Edward J. Flynn

Beat Tammany Hall

Flynn's long and colorful political career hit its first highspot in 1932 when he was a key figure at the Democratic National Convention. With Farley, he was credited with getting the nomination for Roosevelt despite the opposition of Tammany Hall.

He succeeded Farley as Democratic national chairman in 1940 and directed the President's precedent-shattering — and successful — third term campaign.

Victims of Quake Need U. S. Help

The American Red Cross has been asked to assume the responsibility of collecting relief funds for victims of the recent earthquakes in Greece, according to a communication received by Ulster County Chapter.

Mrs. Samuel J. Adams of Saugerties, chairman, said the local chapter received a telegram for donations, which may be sent to Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, 308 Clinton avenue, this city.

Many Sufferers

The plea for donations came from the Greek ambassador to the United States, who made it on request of the Greek government and the Greek Red Cross.

It was stressed that landslides and fires, following the quakes, resulted in tragic disaster and misery for the Greek nation. More than 1,000 have been killed and at least 10,000 made homeless, it is estimated. Figures may run even higher, it is presumed, when broken communication lines are repaired and complete reports are available.

Move Is Underway To Join Districts

A petition is being circulated among the residents in Bearsville, Zena and Woodstock No. 2 school districts asking the State Commissioner of Education to approve consolidation of the three districts, it was learned today.

If the petition is approved by the commissioner, the three districts will decide whether to close the Bearsville and Zena schools and consolidate with Woodstock, or to continue as they are.

A majority vote in each district is required to effect consolidation. The voting is customarily done in one central location and at one time, but each district's results are tabulated separately.

Mrs. Laurence Shultis, Bearsville school trustee, reported today that she had received numerous inquiries concerning a rumor to the effect that the state "is forcing the Bearsville school to close." She said she received a letter from the district superintendent stating that there is no law that can force the closing of the school, nor in the opinion of the superintendent is there ever likely to be such a law.

Council Favors Fire Air Sirens, Sewer Vote Tonight

A Common Council committee report favoring replacement of the city's old fire alarm system was adopted in a recessed council session last night, but the absence of six aldermen forced adjournment until tonight to act on a bond ordinance to cover $11,000 spent for repair of a Greenkill avenue sewer break.

The Aug. 4 meeting was recessed specifically to act on the bond ordinance after a finance committee report favoring the bond issue was adopted. It still needs approval of a laws and rules committee and a final vote by the council on the bond issue. A two-thirds' vote is required.

$6,400 for Air Horns

An estimated $6,400 will be needed to replace the city's 60-year-old bell fire alarm system with modern air horns. A finance committee report favoring the change, was adopted. The committee recommended adoption of its report "until an appropriate bond ordinance can be presented" to the council.

Replacement of the old bell system, which has been wearing out gradually, has been recommended by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and the fire commissioners. The air horn system, officials said, could also be used for civilian defense alarms.

No Polling Change

The aldermen voted approval of the polling places which had been submitted at the Aug. 4 meeting, but held over for consideration of a recommended change in the second district of the 10th ward.

It had been suggested that the Mannerchor hall on Greenkill avenue be used instead of the S. R. Brenner place at 72 Clinton avenue, but Alderman James K. Ryan, who said he had not been consulted as to the proposed change, indicated he saw no reason for making it without further discussion with Brenner, who could not be reached when the regular meeting was in progress. The list, as approved, included the Brenner place instead of Mannerchor hall. All others are the same.

Edmund T. Cloonan, acting superintendent of the water department, was granted permission to attend the meeting of the New York Section, American Water Works Association at Lake Placid, Sept. 10 and 11.

The aldermen absent were Radel, third ward; Wenzel, fourth; Coughlin, seventh; Dolan, eighth; Relyea, 11th and Parmelee, 13th. It appears that at least a few of the absentees thought the meeting was to be held on Tuesday, the regular council meeting night, instead of Monday. Relyea is on vacation and Parmelee reported illness.

The seven present, plus Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, were: Mayes, first ward; Storms, second; Perry, fifth; Norton, sixth; Golden, ninth; Ryan, 10th and Cullum, 12th.

Alderman Ryan offered a resolution asking that lines be painted on Greenkill avenue to prevent the parking of cars too close to the Wallkill Valley railroad tracks, and another asking for one-hour parking in front of the Nicholas LaLima barber shop at 77 Greenkill avenue.

Alderman Perry asked that the property of Dominic and Evelyn M. Perry on the west side of Lindsley avenue be given a business zone designation.

The aldermen adjourned in respect to the observance of VJ Day on a resolution by Alderman Golden.

The purchase price was $30,500, highest bid received at the auction, held pursuant to a court order in an action brought by the Saugerties Savings Bank. The bid was entered by Attorney Sherwood Davis for his clients, who were not named at the time of the sale.

Edward Thatcher

Strong Zest for Life

Ned Thatcher was a man with a keen sense of humor and the rural life of Woodstock township was a perfect background for his love of the hard working folk who farmed the area.

For many years he conducted a column, called The Barzeville Bugle, in Hue and Cry, summer publication, under the by-line of Iddie Flitcher, and it was in this paper that he expressed the full flavor of life in Woodstock as he saw it—and he never saw it maliciously.

One of the experiences Ned Thatcher enjoyed telling about occurred in the early days of radio. At the time he, Albert Cashdollar and John Peper, the latter two of Woodstock, were working on a loudspeaker and microphone hookup attached to a phonograph at the Cashdollar residence on the side of Overlook mountain. They had played several records and were satisfied with the volume which Ned described as "loud enough to blast everyone out of the village." After a time they tired of playing records and fell to discussing village affairs in general, and in a salty fashion. A few minutes later a woman hurried to the Cashdolar house and implored Mrs. Cashdollar to tell those men to "turn that thing off, if they've got to use that kind of language." Ned said they turned it off, but he said they took an "unmerciful beating" in the village a long time afterward.

Did Work at Local Armory

Some of Ned Thatcher's outstanding work may be seen in the New York State Armory, Manor avenue, where he did the National Guard insignia inlaid in bronze. He also wrought a large aluminum punch bowl for the armory, and made a duplicate for Herbert I. Lehman, then governor of New York.

For a year during World War 2 he conducted classes in metalcraft at the Kingston Vocational School under Hubert Hoderath, and left there to go into war work at De Laval, Poughkeepsie. His later years found him back at Bearsville working in his own shop, designing tools, making candle sconces and other items, and preparing magazine articles.

Edward J. Flynn

Beat Tammany Hall

Flynn's long and colorful political career hit its first highspot in 1932 when he was a key figure at the Democratic National Convention. With Farley, he was credited with getting the nomination for Roosevelt despite the opposition of Tammany Hall.

He succeeded Farley as Democratic national chairman in 1940 and directed the President's precedent-shattering — and successful — third term campaign.

Held Cards Will Give You Good Tip

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When your opponent makes the opening lead, you naturally study the card that was led to see what you can find out from it. Did you ever reflect on the fact that sometimes you can find out more from what was not led?

In today's hand West led the five of clubs. The lead didn't seem to mean much; West had merely led the unbid suit. But there was a vital clue in what West had failed to lead.

East took the first trick with the ace of clubs and returned the seven of clubs. West played the king of clubs to cover South's jack, and dummy ruffed.

How should South continue? It isn't very convenient to get to the South hand to begin the diamonds. Perhaps declarer should plan to begin the diamonds from the dummy (either at once or after drawing some trumps); for such a plan would succeed if the diamonds were 2-2 or if the ace happened to drop a singleton king or queen.

But South is guided to the right line of play by the fact that I have mentioned a couple of times already. West had not led his king of clubs, so he hadn't started with the king-queen of that suit.

West hadn't led the queen of spades but had chosen to lead away from the king of clubs. It was highly probable, therefore, that West didn't have spades headed by Q-J-10.

This was highly significant. West had bid on a broken spade suit with the king of clubs as side strength—and what else? Obviously West had diamond strength, and perhaps a singleton somewhere.

In short, South can practically read the entire hand if he uses every scrap of information at his disposal. And then the winning line of play is quite clear.

After ruffing the second club in dummy, declarer cashes the king of hearts and leads a low heart to his jack. West's spade discard is not a bit unexpected.

South leads the jack of diamonds, intending to let it ride if West plays low. West should cover with the queen of diamonds, and dummy wins with the ace. Dummy then returns a diamond, and it doesn't matter whether East ruffs or allows his partner to win. South can simply use the diamonds as a way of making East ruff, and he can easily bring in the game from that point on.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Among the items Sam Scudder loaned me were two illustrated albums, one of New York city, and the other called U. S. Grant Album. They are both copyrighted 1886. No doubt there were others of that type then, which opened up into a long streamer of pictures. These pictures were made so close to the time Grant was at the height of his popularity that clothes, backgrounds, buildings, etc., are drawn correctly of that era. In fact, Grant died in 1885 and these booklets came out the next year. General Grant's funeral is drawn in detail as the procession passed up Fifth avenue. I counted some 24 black horses in black draped material, with a white gloved attendant for each two horses. These 24 horses were pulling the completely black-draped covered hearse, of which the wheels cannot be seen as they were covered with heavy fringed black drape. Also can be seen military escort in white gloves. They give in pictures the ceremony as General Grant is laid to rest at Grant's Tomb in Riverside Park. I remember back in the early 1920's the funerals which were horse-drawn and the bands of music which often went up Broadway in Kingston playing funeral marches. They were much more impressive than auto driven funerals.

The New York booklet has copies of prints from the earliest settlement until the time the booklet was published in 1886. They go back to New York in 1674, with the Dutch setting up their windmills in this country like they did in the old country. One can see sailing vessels and Indians in their canoes.

There is one building, called Dutch cottage, Beaver street, in 1679, which looks a lot like our Old Senate House. The Clermont is there with its high smokestack sending off dark smoke while the wheel paddles in the Hudson river. Central Park was shown as just a meadow. Many of the buildings are so well built that I am sure some are still intact today. There is a good sketch of the Trinity Church. They have a sort of birdseye view of New York and vicinity showing Union Hill, Jersey City, Hoboken, Castle Garden, Battery, East river, Brooklyn Bridge and Brooklyn. I am surprised to see so many buildings there at the time. Brooklyn Bridge was opened in 1883, some three years before this booklet came out. It was a very important link, as it was a (suspension) bridge across East river joining New York city and Brooklyn. Its length was 7,580 feet, and it cost over $18,000,000. A big financial deal in those days. The cement of the foundation, is of course right from our own Rosendale, and so are many of the buildings pictured here and still standing today.

The Statue of Liberty is drawn in fine detail. Further down in the book more sketches are given of the famous Brooklyn Bridge, of which they were very proud in those days. The sailing vessels can be seen going under it, also side-wheelers. The Brooklyn and New York entrance also are shown. Details of the pier platform and the New York approach and cable road are given. For anyone wishing to make a model of the Brooklyn Bridge, such pictures are priceless.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Held Cards Will Give You Good Tip

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When your opponent makes the opening lead, you naturally study the card that was led to see what you can find out from it. Did you ever reflect on the fact that sometimes you can find out more from what was not led?

In today's hand West led the five of clubs. The lead didn't seem to mean much; West had merely led the unbid suit. But there was a vital clue in what West had failed to lead.

East took the first trick with the ace of clubs and returned the seven of clubs. West played the king of clubs to cover South's jack, and dummy ruffed.

How should South continue? It isn't very convenient to get to the South hand to begin the diamonds. Perhaps declarer should plan to begin the diamonds from the dummy (either at once or after drawing some trumps); for such a plan would succeed if the diamonds were 2-2 or if the ace happened to drop a singleton king or queen.

But South is guided to the right line of play by the fact that I have mentioned a couple of times already. West had not led his king of clubs, so he hadn't started with the king-queen of that suit.

West hadn't led the queen of spades but had chosen to lead away from the king of clubs. It was highly probable, therefore, that West didn't have spades headed by Q-J-10.

This was highly significant. West had bid on a broken spade suit with the king of clubs as side strength—and what else? Obviously West had diamond strength, and perhaps a singleton somewhere.

In short, South can practically read the entire hand if he uses every scrap of information at his disposal. And then the winning line of play is quite clear.

After ruffing the second club in dummy, declarer cashes the king of hearts and leads a low heart to his jack. West's spade discard is not a bit unexpected.

South leads the jack of diamonds, intending to let it ride if West plays low. West should cover with the queen of diamonds, and dummy wins with the ace. Dummy then returns a diamond, and it doesn't matter whether East ruffs or allows his partner to win. South can simply use the diamonds as a way of making East ruff, and he can easily bring in the game from that point on.

Describes Budding Of Fruit Trees

Station workers are also budding stocks of many of the new varieties of tree fruits originated at the station.

Budding operations for the propagation of fruit trees and many ornamentals are now in full swing in nurseries across the state.

"Budding consists of inserting a single mature bud of this season's growth from a desired variety into a suitable rootstock during the active growing season," explains Professor Brase.

"This bud unites with the tissue of the rootstock but lies dormant until next spring when the top of the rootstock is cut away just above the point where the bud was inserted; allowing the bud to grow into a new fruit tree," he continues.

In western New York budding begins with cherries on Mazzard rootstocks in late July and continues with pears, apples, prunes, and peaches in that order. Cherries may also be budded to Mahaleb rootstocks in late August. Budded trees generally remain in the nursery for two years, says Professor Brase.

Full-grown bearing trees may also be budded to other varieties. This is known as "top-working" and is most successful on one- and two-year-old growth and when done in July and August while the tree is still growing vigorously.

Budding is used mainly to produce fruit trees, but many ornamentals, including roses, are also propagated by this means.

Describes Budding Of Fruit Trees

Station workers are also budding stocks of many of the new varieties of tree fruits originated at the station.

Budding operations for the propagation of fruit trees and many ornamentals are now in full swing in nurseries across the state.

"Budding consists of inserting a single mature bud of this season's growth from a desired variety into a suitable rootstock during the active growing season," explains Professor Brase.

"This bud unites with the tissue of the rootstock but lies dormant until next spring when the top of the rootstock is cut away just above the point where the bud was inserted, allowing the bud to grow into a new fruit tree," he continues.

In western New York budding begins with cherries on Mazzard rootstocks in late July and continues with pears, apples, prunes, and peaches in that order. Cherries may also be budded to Mahaleb rootstocks in late August. Budded trees generally remain in the nursery for two years, says Professor Brase.

Full-grown bearing trees may also be budded to other varieties. This is known as "top-working" and is most successful on one- and two-year-old growth and when done in July and August while the tree is still growing vigorously.

Budding is used mainly to produce fruit trees, but many ornamentals, including roses, are also propagated by this means.

You may think there is not much that any one person can do toward achieving world peace. Yet if every person who believed in the ideas in the Golden Rule, the Sermon on the Mount, and the Ten Commandments would begin practicing them in his own small sphere, the combined effect would be world-shaking.

May the pole-star of hope guide us through the sea of misfortune.

Henry—Any mail, dear?

Honey Hostess—You have several invitations, one from the Johnsons, one from the Wilsons, and one from the U. S. Army.

Clarice—Sh! Quiet! We're in the mountains.

Amos—Why?

Clarice—Don't you know the mountains peek?

A good character, good habits and industry are impervious to the assaults of ill luck.

Visiting Delegate (to hotel clerk)—Why didn't you call me at 7:30 this morning?

Clerk (politely)—Because you didn't go to bed till eight.

Friend—Did your father-in-law remember you when he made out his will?

Old Rounder—He sure did. He didn't leave me a cent.

Mother Goose appears to have become associated with nursery rhymes and jingles in a roundabout way. In 1697 Charles Perrault, French author, published a collection of fairy tales entitled Histoires ou contes du temps passe avec des moralites. On the frontispiece was pictured an old woman engaged in spinning yarns and telling stories to a man, a girl, a boy and a cat. A placard near the picture says Contes de ma Mere l'Oye, "Tales of My Mother Goose."

An upset citizen nervously asked a prominent astronomer whether it was possible for the atomic bomb to destroy the earth. "Suppose it does," said the scientist with a casual shrug. "It isn't as if the earth were a major planet."

WARNING TO THOSE WHO CROCHET

A wife writes: "Just recently we bought new living room furniture and a friend of mine who crochets beautifully, made me a set of antimacassars to protect the arms and head rests of our chairs. I never liked these on furniture and certainly don't care to use them on my new furniture, but what can I do about this without hurting her feelings? She comes to visit us quite often and surely will notice whether they are being used.

I think a hostess should be consulted before being given anything to be put in her house because where one might like the item another would not. If you wish to please her you might put them on when you know she is coming to see you.

Gloves On, While Receiving

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married soon and I will, of course, stand in the receiving line with the bride's mother. I am going to wear a light blue lace dress and long gloves. I would like to know if I should keep these gloves on while receiving, and when do I remove them?

Answer: You remove them when you are going to eat but not when you are receiving.

Eating Fruit

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how peaches, pears and apples are eaten at the table?

Answer: Peaches may be eaten in the fingers when freestones are served. The fruit always is broken in half. A clingstone you can't break apart; therefore you eat it whole. If you do this you take very small bites to prevent the juice from running down your wrist. Usually, however, you peel the peach whole and then eat it with knife and fork. Apples and pears usually are quartered with a knife. The core then is cut away from each quarter and the fruit is eaten in the fingers. Those who do not like the skin peel each quarter separately.

Eating Rolls

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to cut hard rolls with a knife, or must they always be broken by hand?

Answer: They should be broken by hand.

The Mature Parent

A Confidence for Mothers Of Boys to Listen In On

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

It goes on endlessly, it seems.

It was at a large dinner party. Highball in hand, a beautiful young woman sank down on the settee beside me. "Hello," she said. "You drink Coke? How come? When I drink, I drink. Especially tonight. This is the second anniversary of my divorce."

As I didn't know what to say, I said nothing. My neighbor took a long swallow. Then she announced, "I've got a four-year-old daughter, you know."

"How nice," I said. "How's she taking the second anniversary of the divorce?"

"Oh, marvelously, simply marvelously," my beautiful neighbor told me. "She lives with my parents. I work. You can't work and take care of your baby at the same time, can you? So Amy stays with my parents. But she's happy. I'm the one who isn't adjusted. Amy never mentions her father. That means she's adjusted, doesn't it?"

"I don't know," I said. "I don't know your little girl."

The lovely, slightly unfocused blue eyes moved away from my face to the glass in hand. For a moment or so my neighbor just stared into the clear golden liquid it held as though she were searching it for some clarifying, precious meaning or message. Then, as thongh she hadn't found it, she took another long swallow.

"My child's a lamb," she said. "Really a sweetie. I like her. She looks like her father. He's awfully good-looking. I like Amy, but, I'm not ga-ga about her, you understand. Definitely not ga-ga. I do not ooze devotion. I don't go all mushy when I show people her baby pictures. I don't look at my child the way you look at your husband on your honeymoon. That I really don't do."

"My ex-husband's mother looks at him like that," the beautiful young woman said. "She adores him out of this world. She went right on buying all his shirts for him after we were married. She took all his socks home to darn. Why couldn't she adore her own husband instead of mine? Why did she have to do everything for him so that he couldn't even hold a job long enough to pay our obstetrician for Amy? Tell me that, will you? You can't, can you? Not at a party, anyway. . . . .

"It might spoil the fun, mightn't it?" she said, getting up. "We don't want to do that, do we? No, of course we don't. I think I need a refill."

Mothers of boys, hers was the second such confidence I listened to this week. Are you listening, too?

"How nice," I said. "How's she taking the second anniversary of the divorce?"

"Oh, marvelously, simply marvelously," my beautiful neighbor told me. "She lives with my parents. I work. You can't work and take care of your baby at the same time, can you? So Amy stays with my parents. But she's happy. I'm the one who isn't adjusted. Amy never mentions her father. That means she's adjusted, doesn't it?"

"I don't know," I said. "I don't know your little girl."

The lovely, slightly unfocused blue eyes moved away from my face to the glass in hand. For a moment or so my neighbor just stared into the clear golden liquid it held as though she were searching it for some clarifying, precious meaning or message. Then, as thongh she hadn't found it, she took another long swallow.

"My child's a lamb," she said. "Really a sweetie. I like her. She looks like her father. He's awfully good-looking. I like Amy, but, I'm not ga-ga about her, you understand. Definitely not ga-ga. I do not ooze devotion. I don't go all mushy when I show people her baby pictures. I don't look at my child the way you look at your husband on your honeymoon. That I really don't do."

"My ex-husband's mother looks at him like that," the beautiful young woman said. "She adores him out of this world. She went right on buying all his shirts for him after we were married. She took all his socks home to darn. Why couldn't she adore her own husband instead of mine? Why did she have to do everything for him so that he couldn't even hold a job long enough to pay our obstetrician for Amy? Tell me that, will you? You can't, can you? Not at a party, anyway. . . . .

"It might spoil the fun, mightn't it?" she said, getting up. "We don't want to do that, do we? No, of course we don't. I think I need a refill."

Mothers of boys, hers was the second such confidence I listened to this week. Are you listening, too?

Escape Big Item Always in Minds Of War Prisoners

(Editor's Note: Frank Noel, AP photographer and Pulitzer Prize winner in 1943, came back from more than 32 months in a Communist prison camp on Aug. 9. In this second of a series of three stories he tells of the thwarted plan of an American pilot with whom he escaped to steal a Russian-made MIG 15 jet fighter and fly it to an American base.)

By FRANK NOEL
As Told to Olen Clements

Tokyo, Aug. 18 (AP) — In the minds of prisoners—whether it is Leavenworth or a Communist hole in North Korea—escape always is running through your mind.

Four times I planned to escape. Once I did.

It was with a pilot, Capt. Zachary Dean. It happened in August, 1951.

I had been a prisoner of the Communists then nearly a year. Dean, a P51 pilot, was shot down in April, 1951. He was a bridegroom of six days.

First I'll give you the picture. Escape in a country where you can't speak the language, read the road signs, show your face at all, is something that must be thought out.

Dean, a lanky Kansan with the guts of a lion, wanted to steal a MIG 15 and fly it back to an airfield in South Korea. Being in the air force he knew how much those things were worth. So we planned to swim the Yalu, sneak down around Antung, Manchuria, lie up around the airport a few days, and watch the Chinese security guards. Eventually he planned to snatch a hot jet and fly it away.

I was going to steal a fishing boat or bribe or clobber somebody and get out the best way I could.

Three in Escape Plot

There were three of us involved in the escape plot.

We began to connive, scrape food bowls for leftovers and horde everything we could lay hands on that we could eat or use for trading or bribery.

Communists are easy to bribe.

We knew the route from the camp we were going to take. It was through a corn patch. But the corn wasn't high enough. So we watched that corn grow, kept an eye on the moon and bided our time.

One stormy night looked like the night. We were ready.

The third man had just come down with yellow jaundice.

Dean and I decided to go it alone. That is not good because in that country you might sprain an ankle tripping over undergrowth. It is best that three men go together just in case of illness, injury or to keep watch while the other two slept.

But Dean and I were eager.

We sneaked out into that corn patch.

The rain was beating down. We had all our possessions—Dean's wrist watch, two or three fountain pens, about $10 in greenbacks I had borrowed from Turkish prisoners, a straight razor Dean had stolen from the company barber shop, a Boy Scout knife I had, a couple of rocks and the cover for a sleeping bag which we were going to use for a sail on any small boat he might steal.

Had Night Blindness

We got through the corn patch all right. Then we hit a woods and tripped over the undergrowth and I slid down an embankment that left my derrier bare. We floundered around and got going again.

It was black as pitch. We didn't know it but we had night blindness due to a lack of vitamins. We stumbled on and pretty soon we came to a little opening. Blindly I walked on, fell over a fence and right into a pig sty.

Well, that pig wanted no human company. He squealed and mouthed around there until he woke up the Korean farmer. The farmer poked his head out of a window, a cigarette glowing, but he never did come out.

It took us most all night but we swam a half-mile wide lake and got over on the other side of it. Probably all night long we walked. Yet we didn't make over a mile from the camp. But we had the lake between us and the camp.

We slept all day in some bushes.

It was raining and we were wringing wet.

We were heading for the Yalu, going to swim across.

Trails in that country all have security guards on them. We almost bumped into two or three guard huts but escaped.

That night we had a talk.

Dean said:

"I'm going to steal a MIG. (MIGs can not carry any passengers) And I'll have to go it alone. What are you going to do?"

I said:

"I'll stick with you until you take off then I'll go on down the coast, steal a boat, bribe a fisherman or something and try to make it down south of the 38th Parallel or hit an allied carrier or something out in the Yellow Sea and go aboard it."

Our tobacco was wet. We were miserable. But we were free.

Hit Red Road Block

That night we stumbled right into a Korean road block.

There were a couple of guards in the hut and they heard us. They stumbled out in their underwear, carrying those bamboo pike spears of theirs and making a lot of noise because they were scared.

They looked around, went back into the hut and closed the door.

Dean and I took off in high gear.

We jumped in behind a high clay embankment facing the lake. Ten or 15 minutes later the Koreans came yak-yakin down the road. They were scared of their own shadows, and we knew it.

They walked right past us. Their wet tennis shoes squished.

Then we sneaked up on a hill, hid in some bushes all day, because we knew we had been detected.

It was good and dark when we stirred. Only Dean had a watch.

Dean began to get sick. His back hurt. There was a swelling in his groins. He had hepitatis.

Dean Is Stricken

Oh, yes, I forgot. The Chinese innoculated 120 of us with the same needle. The last 20 or so, you could hear the needle as it screwed its way through the tissues.

It was jaundice Dean had. There was no mistake.

"I can't go any farther," he said. "We've got to find a hiding place for a couple of days."

When you get jaundice our camp doctors, who had treated the other 27 of that 120 who came down with it, had told us you must lie still and take as much sugar as possible. Of course, we had no sugar but Dean knew that.

Finally we found a cowshed and crawled in there.

We had been three days and nights in a torrential rain. We were cold and wanted warm food. We saw the farm compound.

We decided to take a chance. Maybe they wouldn't turn us in. Dean could get two or three days rest.

Long Shot Loses

There were about seven families in it. That's where your communism comes in. One of them turned us in. We'd taken a long shot and lost.

They did give us warm food, kindness, dry tobacco. Then the insiduousness of communism reared its ugly head. They had to tell the Gestapo. Too many people had seen us.

It was that old snitch government, that shotgun diplomacy again. The Koreans could not trust their fellow Communists. Somebody had to report us, we knew. So we started to leave.

We got out on the road. We didn't know it but we were only six kilometers from the Yalu. We knew its direction and we started that way. Those Koreans said that we should go the other way.

We said we are going our way.

Dean offered them his watch. They grabbed us.

Dean was much taller so two of the three men who were trying to detain us grabbed him and one grabbed me on the left shoulder.

I grabbed his thumb and doubled it up. It must have hurt him to his elbow. He was at my mercy.

Dean whipped out this razor he stole from the company barber and he made a couple of swipes at his two tormentors. They retreated to the embankment.

I didn't let go of that thumb.

Dean, who was free, said:

"What the hell are we going to do?"

I said:

In Mud for Hour

"Let's get over in that cornfield and fight them if they find us."

So we made a couple of "S" turns and dived into that cornfield and under some climbing bean vines the Koreans always have in their cornfields. We laid there in the mud for about an hour.

Then the kids found us. They had turned about 50 boys between 10 and 12 loose to look for us.

Then the grown folks moved in. They bound our arms behind us and bound us together with ropes. Dean told them he'd give them his watch. If we had had two, we'd have been free.

When we walked, we almost goose-stepped. We must have looked ridiculous.

Then Dean broke out with dysentery. It was bad.

They said we had to march back the whole 27 miles we had come from the camp.

Dean was sick, bad. Have you ever been tied to a man with dysentery on the road? When he took a step I took a step. When he did anything I had to assume the same position.

They never let us loose until we got back to the camp.

They they threw us in the hole—Dean for two months. I got six.

Neither of us served the full sentence but the Communists never let us forget that we still had part of our sentence hanging over our heads.

Dean served about 32 days in that hole—an abandoned, uncleaned latrine.

I served about 42 days, because Dean's sentence originally was shorter than mine, in a better hole which was not a latrine. But it stank.

Officers Came to Aid

They gave us flea-laden uniforms and those fleas hit us like they had fish hooks for snozzles. It was bad.

But we were lucky. We thought we'd be shot.

One thing I'm pretty proud of was when those sentences were pronounced.

There was a small (maybe I imagined this) but it seemed a very small amount of applause rose from that camp of 1,600 men in Camp 5.

There was complete silence from the officers.

I was the prize reactionary.

But when I hit the hole, and I shall be ever grateful for this, the officers, with whom I had been quartered, sent a petition to the Reds saying that I was down to 125 pounds and they did not think I could survive a six-month sentence in the whole.

Well, after that the Communists would bring me out of the hole, in which neither of us could stand up, lie down or relax, and they suggested that I write to my correspondent friends at Panmunjom and newspaper friends, including some publishers in the United States.

They put 60 watt lights in my face. They wanted strictly favorable propaganda. That is communism.

Squirrel Damages Lower Parlor of Local Church

New Paltz, Aug. 18—A squirrel trapped in the Methodist Church lower rooms wore his teeth to the gums trying to free himself last week. The squirrel's plight was discovered by Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, the organist. A window was opened to free the squirrel but he died immediately from starvation and exhaustion. Curtains were ripped and the window sills were eaten down to the glass in places. Some table legs were also damaged. It is supposed that the squirrel entered by an open window without being seen and when the window was closed he was trapped inside. The damage was confined to the small downstairs parlor.

Dean offered them his watch. They grabbed us.

Dean was much taller so two of the three men who were trying to detain us grabbed him and one grabbed me on the left shoulder.

I grabbed his thumb and doubled it up. It must have hurt him to his elbow. He was at my mercy.

Dean whipped out this razor he stole from the company barber and he made a couple of swipes at his two tormentors. They retreated to the embankment.

I didn't let go of that thumb.

Dean, who was free, said:

"What the hell are we going to do?"

I said:

In Mud for Hour

"Let's get over in that cornfield and fight them if they find us."

So we made a couple of "S" turns and dived into that cornfield and under some climbing bean vines the Koreans always have in their cornfields. We laid there in the mud for about an hour.

Then the kids found us. They had turned about 50 boys between 10 and 12 loose to look for us.

Then the grown folks moved in. They bound our arms behind us and bound us together with ropes. Dean told them he'd give them his watch. If we had had two, we'd have been free.

When we walked, we almost goose-stepped. We must have looked ridiculous.

Then Dean broke out with dysentery. It was bad.

They said we had to march back the whole 27 miles we had come from the camp.

Dean was sick, bad. Have you ever been tied to a man with dysentery on the road? When he took a step I took a step. When he did anything I had to assume the same position.

They never let us loose until we got back to the camp.

They they threw us in the hole—Dean for two months. I got six.

Neither of us served the full sentence but the Communists never let us forget that we still had part of our sentence hanging over our heads.

Dean served about 32 days in that hole—an abandoned, uncleaned latrine.

I served about 42 days, because Dean's sentence originally was shorter than mine, in a better hole which was not a latrine. But it stank.

Officers Came to Aid

They gave us flea-laden uniforms and those fleas hit us like they had fish hooks for snozzles. It was bad.

But we were lucky. We thought we'd be shot.

One thing I'm pretty proud of was when those sentences were pronounced.

There was a small (maybe I imagined this) but it seemed a very small amount of applause rose from that camp of 1,600 men in Camp 5.

There was complete silence from the officers.

I was the prize reactionary.

But when I hit the hole, and I shall be ever grateful for this, the officers, with whom I had been quartered, sent a petition to the Reds saying that I was down to 125 pounds and they did not think I could survive a six-month sentence in the whole.

Well, after that the Communists would bring me out of the hole, in which neither of us could stand up, lie down or relax, and they suggested that I write to my correspondent friends at Panmunjom and newspaper friends, including some publishers in the United States.

They put 60 watt lights in my face. They wanted strictly favorable propaganda. That is communism.

Squirrel Damages Lower Parlor of Local Church

New Paltz, Aug. 18—A squirrel trapped in the Methodist Church lower rooms wore his teeth to the gums trying to free himself last week. The squirrel's plight was discovered by Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, the organist. A window was opened to free the squirrel but he died immediately from starvation and exhaustion. Curtains were ripped and the window sills were eaten down to the glass in places. Some table legs were also damaged. It is supposed that the squirrel entered by an open window without being seen and when the window was closed he was trapped inside. The damage was confined to the small downstairs parlor.

Woodstock Open Draws Crack Field for Annual Event on Friday

Farinas, Gerlak F. Stuhler and Others Scheduled

Makofski, Mangino Head Amateur Group

The annual Woodstock Open, one of the premier events of the Northeastern PGA calendar, will be staged over the traditional 27-hole route on Friday.

Last year's tournament produced a sensational finish in which Armand Farina, the Schenectady veteran, fired six consecutive birdies and a "29" on the last nine holes to overcome a 7-stroke lead held by Frank Stuhler, the Bennington, Vt. wizard.

Farina's 27-hole total was 102, three-under par. In the final foursome he posted 29, his brother, Jim, fired a 31; Alex Gerlak, 34 and Stuhler, the 18-hole leader, zoomed to a 37.

Stars Scheduled

The Farina brothers—Armand, Jim and Joe—Stuhler, Scotty Robertson, Charlie De Stefano of Poughkeepsie, Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, Dick Stennard, John Gaucas are among the "name" pros who will be making their annual pilgrimage to J. Carson Hutchins' picturesque layout.

Other area topnotchers listed among the probable starters are long-hitting Steve Kay, of Sharon Springs, who regularly drives the No. 2 holes and goes for the green on No. 7; Fred Hasbrouck of Walden; Ken MacLeod of IBM, Eddie Brown, Bill Gressick, Alex McIntyre and Ray Smith of Palenville.

Distinguished Winners

During its long history, the Woodstock Open has listed several distinguished winners, among them Gerlak, Joe Zarhardt, now of Greensboro, N. C.; Emory Thomas, formerly of Red Hook but one of New Jersey's best pros of the day and a flock of others.

With the annual Wiltwyck Pro-Am event shelved temporarily, the Woodstock Open remains as the only major professional golf attraction in Ulster county.

Bid For Amateurs

Members of the Woodstock Country Golf Club golf committee have guaranteed $600 in prizes for the pros and will offer the most attractive amateur prize list in several years.

Sig Makofski and Dom Magino, the two Schenectady standouts, will head the amateur contingent, but Woodstock officials hope to have George Hughes, Alvin Boice, Clarence Raichle, Bill Van Aken and others in the field.

Bill Kaufman of Saugerties, Gerry Wells and Roy Vogt of Wiltwyck, are likely to compete in the simon pure contingent along with Bill Macarelli and Mahlon Atkinson, Jr. and Catskill.

John Snyder, lanky Troy amateur, won the 1952 simon pure division in a playoff with Carlton Traver of Rhinebeck. They tied with 106s and Snyder won on the third hole of the sudden death playoff.

Golfers and their wives will be guests of the Woodstock Country Club at a luncheon and dance Thursday night when the Calcutta drawings will be made.

Los Angeles Receives Promise From Veeck

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (AP)—Bill Veeck has promised Los Angeles county and city officials that if they can purchase the local baseball park the American League will permit him to bring the St. Louis Browns major league franchise here next year, the Times said today.

The park is owned by P. K. Wrigley, who holds the franchises both for the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League and the Chicago Cubs of the National League.

Peacock Wants Carruthers After Taking U. S. Crown

Brooklyn, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy Peacock, a 21-year-old lad from Los Angeles, with only 18 pro fights under his belt, today was thinking in terms of the world's bantamweight crown after winning the North American championship from Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C.

First on Peacock's future calendar, however, is a return bout with Gault, whom he defeated last night on a 12-round split decision at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena. The rematch may be set back to mid-October so Peacock can have his bad tonsils taken out.

The new North American champion also wants to even matters with Baby Face Gutie Gutierrez who took away his California bantam crown last month.

Referee Petey Scalzo called it 7-4-1 for Peacock and Judge Art Aidala saw it 7-5 for Peacock. Judge Charley Shortell had Gault the winner, 6-5-1. The Associated Press scorecard favored Peacock 6-5-1.

Gay Abbe Captures Westbury Feature

Westbury, Aug. 18 (AP)—The favored Gay Abbe staved off late bids of Dagsworthy York and Betty French to capture the $3,500 Massachusetts pace at Roosevelt Raceway last night.

Gay Abbe, owned by Heather Mactavish, La Chute, Canada, was driven by her father, Del Mactavish. The pacer, an eight-year-old brown gelding, covered the mile in 2:06.4 to beat Dagsworthy York by a neck with Betty French taking third a half length behind.

National AAU Event for Sunday Draws Crack Field

1953 Champ, Cirigliano Is Scheduled to Show

Thirty-five of the country's top-notch swimmers are already entered in the annual Men's Senior National AAU Long Distance Swimming championships Sunday Aug. 23, at Williams Lake.

In making the announcement, Frederick C. Dippel Jr., of the Williams Lake Athletic Club, laid aside rumors that the race would not be held because of the recent fire at the Ulster county resort. The race is scheduled at 1 p. m.

Dippel also said that Rocco Cirigliano, of Ohio State University, the 1952 winner, would be on hand to defend his title, along with the runnerup, Frank Nauss of York, Pa.

These two entries insure spectators another hair-raising contest, as last year only a yard or two separated the pair during the entire four-mile grind. They exchanged the lead several times before Cirigliano slipped home with a desperate last minute kick.

Champion Returns

The youngest swimmer entered so far is 14-year-old Frankie Brunell, the sensational merman from Philadelphia, who amazed spectators with his fourth-place finish last year.

Oldest entrant, of course, is the perennial favorite, 67-year-old Walter Pofahl of Orange, N. J., who is bound to win the hearts of the audience as he has done in the past.

Ohrbach AA Entered

Team entries have been received from the Huntington YMCA of Indiana, Cleveland Elks Club, New York Athletic Club, York, Pa., YMCA and Ohrbach AA of New York, the defending team champions.

Because of the excellent facilities for staging a race of this type Williams Lake was awarded the sanction for the big time contest over all other applicants throughout the United States.

In spite of the recent fire losses, Walter Williams decided to keep the race going at his resort and AAU officials responded enthusiastically. The fact that Charles Roeser, national swimming chairman, will attend to referee the race is evidence of the importance the AAU attaches to it.

F. W. Flint Upsets Campochiaro, 2-Up

In another important match, Fabian Russell of Saugerties, downed veteran A. B. "Dan" Shufeldt, 1-up. Shufeldt had beaten Charles Vogel, 2-up, in a first round match while Russell won a default from Adrian Kaplan.

Gene Jordan defeated Robert O'Reilly, 5 and 4.

Joseph Garland defeated Austin Boyd, Jr., 4 and 2.

Gene Freer defeated Robert Russell, default.

Dr. Rodney Ball defeated George Schneider, 5 and 4.

Floyd W. Flint defeated William Fuller, 1-up.

Frank Campochiaro defeated Albert Flanagan, 3 and 2.

A. B. Shufeldt defeated Charles Vogel, 2-up.

Fabian Russell defeated Adrian Kaplan, default.

Wall Wins Playoff

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 18 (AP)—Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., was never behind as he defeated Cary Middlecoff of Memphis by two strokes in a playoff for the Fort Wayne Open golf title Monday. His $2,400 check was the first winner's prize he had pocketed in two years on the tournament circuit. Middlecoff took $1,800. Wall shot a 70 and Middlecoff 72.

Doblers Are Key Team In Week's Twi Schedule

Could Be Block to Joneses, Wiltwycks

Doblers Brewmeisters are the "team of the week" in the City Baseball League with a date this evening against Wiltwyck Motors and a Thursday engagement with Jones Dairy.

Both of these teams have designs on the second half flag, and, strangely enough, the Doblers still retain a mathematical chance.

Their two losses put them even with the Merchants and Motormen, although they lag two lengths behind in the win column.

Two Hurlers Ready

Manager Joe Hoffman has two front line flingers primed to thwart the pennant hopes of the opposition. Gerry Bechtold is the probable starter against Wiltwycks today, with George "No Hit" Magley going in the Thursday battle with Jones Dairy.

The Dairymen are faced with the necessity of winning their three remaining games to insure themselves the pennant. The next three teams show only two losses in the vital column but the pairings in the next two weeks should scramble those statistics a bit.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

• Around the Sports Beat:

Exhibition football scores and bowling notices infiltrating the sports pages these days, while baseball fans get chummy with the ticket offices of the Yankees and Dodgers. Kingston reaction to Leo Durocher's re-appointment for two years as manager of the New York Giants was mostly one of amazement. "What is Stoneham trying to do, empty out the Polo Grounds?" asked a John McGraw Giant fan.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

George Telepas, the former KHS southpaw who has been toiling in the Kitty League, due home after the seasonal finale on Aug. 23. . . . In time for some action in the Hudson valley round robin series, if his recent arm ailment responds to treatment. Golden Greek enjoyed fair success in his first stint with the second division Mayfield club. Next spring he should be better qualified to make his bid for a successful OB pitching career. Which reminds that another ex-KHS great, Clark Mains, returns to the Giant farm system after his release from the U. S. Navy next December. William R. Scully and Supervisor James DeCicco did a tremendous job in promoting the District 3 Little League tournament and the subsequent all-star game and hot dog roast for the small fry. Says Bud Wilkinson, football coach of the Oklahoma Sooners: "Although the new (substitution) rules will be disadvantageous to us in many respects, they are in my opinion good for football. I doubt if spectators will see much difference in the game, although there will probably be less scoring, principally because there will be fewer plays. The new substitution rule eliminates stopping the clock when the ball changes hands. Without these time outs the 60 minutes will run out faster than they did a year ago.

• Of Men and Mice:

Will Tommy Carlino, the Jones Dairy slugger, ever forget the horrendous experience of Saturday night at municipal stadium? Three errors and four strikeouts, once with the bases loaded. One of those nights that happen to every ball player at least once in a lifetime. Carl Furillo, The Arm of the Brooklyn Dodgers, says flatly that right field is the hardest position in the outfield. The Arm broke in with Brooklyn as a centerfielder, was moved to left and wound up in right. "The ball comes pretty much straight at you in center and left," Furillo explains. "This makes it easy to handle. But on hits to right field it has a crazy spin on it (like a golfer's slice) and does tricks. You've also got that long throw to third base."

Writing from La Jolla, Cal., Al Sonnenberg, the former local athlete, reports that major league sentiment on the Pacific Coast is the real McCoy and predicts that both Los Angeles and San Francisco will follow Milwaukee (and Baltimore) into the major league orbit. He said there is considerable agitation against waiting for the whole Coast league to be transferred to major league status. Rather, he points out, the individual cities like LA and San Francisco are willing to take their chances on going it alone. Los Angeles, now third ranking city in the United States, is the best possibility at the moment. Coach G. Warren Kias of Kingston High is in that small coterie of sports fans who believe baseball will make a local comeback within the next five years. "We're in the middle of a bad cycle," he says, "but in five years, television will no longer be a novelty, the roads will be overcrowded and people will want to return to live athletics." Bowling alley scuttlebutt has it that Larry Weishaupt, the Blond Bomber, could be missing from the Hudson valley championship bowling roster when the 1953-54 season opens. And in Poughkeepsie, Phil Versace has switched from the Old Guard to the youth movement of Jake Charter, George Baird, Dick Rhea et al to give the Bridge City its biggest pennant threat in years.

• Babe Set the Yankee Pattern:

Red Ruffing, one of their all-time hurling greats, doubts the Yankees can make it five straight, but feels the New York club has the spirit and tradition in its favor.

"You've got to fight them all the way," he says. "We used to step on the field with the feeling that we were winners. Yep, we beat a lot of teams before the game ever started.

"Joe McCarthy had a lot to do with it. I remember McCarthy used to take me aside and point to players on other teams. He had a contempt for inferior players, even though he never made the major leagues himself.

"Look at that $200-a-month guy," he'd say. "That guy never should get a basehit off you. I guess we came to believe it."

Ruffing believes that Babe Ruth laid the cornerstone for the solid Yankee psychology that is still there today. "The Babe made everybody feel that nothing could stop us because nothing could stop him," Ruffing said.

Oldest rival on Army's football schedule is Navy. They have played 53 games. Army leads 27 to 22. Four games were ties.

Musial Slowly Climbing Back Among Leaders

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—"The patient is recovering and gaining rapidly."

That bulletin might well be issued today on the condition of Stan Musial's hitting as the St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder strives for his seventh National League batting championship.

Musial currently is batting .316, ninth highest in the senior circuit. But a couple of good days will put him within striking distance of Monte Irvin, the NL's pace-setter.

Irvin, New York Giants' outfielder, has been on the shelf with an injured ankle since Aug. 9, and has held on to his No. 1 spot with a .339 average. Carl Furillo of the Brooklyn Dodgers is second with .333 followed by Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski at .331.

Vernon Leads AL

In the American League, Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators is leading with a .331 mark. Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox has zoomed into the runner-up position only two points back. Minnie gained 13 points last week while Vernon tailed off four.

Musial was hitting a lowly .256 in mid-June but has been on the rise since then. He has hit safely in 15 of his last 16 games and picked up another two points last week with 10 hits in 29 times at bat. The Cards still have 40 games left to play.

Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves tops the National League in home runs with 37 and Brooklyn's Roy Campanella has the most runs batted in, 111.

Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians and Gus Zernial of the Philadelphia Athletics share the American League home run lead with 29 apiece. Rosen has driven in the most tallies, 101.

Pierce Leads AL In Earned Runs

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy (The Kid) Pierce, who has emerged as a top-flight American League pitcher this year, and Warren Spahn, one of the National's best since 1947, lead their respective circuits in earned run averages today.

Pierce, slender Chicago White Sox southpaw, has given up only 49 earned runs in 201 innings for a 2.19 mark. He has hurled three straight shutouts in his most recent starts and hasn't been scored on in 34 2/3 innings. Billy has won 16 games, his major league high, and lost seven.

Spahn, a 20-game winner in four of his seven big league campaigns, has permitted 45 earned runs in 183 frames for a 2.21 average. The 32-year-old Milwaukee lefthander has a 16-5 record this year.

Virgil Trucks, another White Sox pitching ace, is runner-up to Pierce in the American League with a 2.54 ERA.

Eddie Lopat of the New York Yankees is third at 2.56.

Robin Roberts, the major leagues' only 20 game winner, is second in the National League with a 2.55 earned run average. New York's Hoyt Wilhelm is third at 2.59.

NBA Game of Week

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—The National Basketball Association will have a "Game of the Week" on television this season from December through March. NBA President Maurice Podoloff and Tom McMahon, sports director for the Dumont Television Network, concluded arrangements for the series yesterday.

Favorites Score At Woodstock CC

Three of four favorites have advanced to the second round and will square off in 18-hole quarter-final matches in the championship flight at Woodstock Country Club this weekend.

In 18-hole action, Boyer Gonzales, defending champion, trounced Walter Seaton, 5 and 4. Norman Foster, a darkhorse entry, overpowered Stephen DeLisio, 8 and 7, while Billy Waterous had to travel 20 holes for a 1-up victory over Victor Allen.

Herbie Waterous registered a mild upset when he downed Bill Stifler, 2and 1. Other top-flight contenders, Allen Waterous, Charles J. Turck and Frederick Allen won first round matches.

Adios Boy Against Field at Yonkers

Yonkers, Aug. 18 (AP)—Adios Boy, the two-year-old pacer who holds the world mile record of 2:03 for horses of nis age, goes against a field of nine tonight in the Pelham at Yonkers Raceway. Adios Boy, who will be driven by Howard Camden, has won his last four starts. Red Flame will be second choice in the juvenile stake which will have a value of $4,800.

Worthy Acclaim, owned by Arthur Nardin of New York, scored an easy two length victory last night in the Peekskill trot, feature of the Yonkers opening.

Woodstock Open Draws Crack Field for Annual Event on Friday

Makofski, Mangino Head Amateur Group

The annual Woodstock Open, one of the premier events of the Northeastern PGA calendar, will be staged over the traditional 27-hole route on Friday.

Last year's tournament produced a sensational finish in which Armand Farina, the Schenectady veteran, fired six consecutive birdies and a "29" on the last nine holes to overcome a 7-stroke lead held by Frank Stuhler, the Bennington, Vt. wizard.

Farina's 27-hole total was 102, three-under par. In the final foursome he posted 29, his brother, Jim, fired a 31; Alex Gerlak, 34 and Stuhler, the 18-hole leader, zoomed to a 37.

Stars Scheduled

The Farina brothers—Armand, Jim and Joe—Stuhler, Scotty Robertson, Charlie De Stefano of Poughkeepsie, Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, Dick Stennard, John Gaucas are among the "name" pros who will be making their annual pilgrimage to J. Carson Hutchins' picturesque layout.

Other area topnotchers listed among the probable starters are long-hitting Steve Kay, of Sharon Springs, who regularly drives the No. 2 holes and goes for the green on No. 7; Fred Hasbrouck of Walden; Ken MacLeod of IBM, Eddie Brown, Bill Gressick, Alex McIntyre and Ray Smith of Palenville.

Distinguished Winners

During its long history, the Woodstock Open has listed several distinguished winners, among them Gerlak, Joe Zarhardt, now of Greensboro, N. C.; Emory Thomas, formerly of Red Hook but one of New Jersey's best pros of the day and a flock of others.

With the annual Wiltwyck Pro-Am event shelved temporarily, the Woodstock Open remains as the only major professional golf attraction in Ulster county.

Bid For Amateurs

Members of the Woodstock Country Golf Club golf committee have guaranteed $600 in prizes for the pros and will offer the most attractive amateur prize list in several years.

Sig Makofski and Dom Magino, the two Schenectady standouts, will head the amateur contingent, but Woodstock officials hope to have George Hughes, Alvin Boice, Clarence Raichle, Bill Van Aken and others in the field.

Bill Kaufman of Saugerties, Gerry Wells and Roy Vogt of Wiltwyck, are likely to compete in the simon pure contingent along with Bill Macarelli and Mahlon Atkinson, Jr. and Catskill.

John Snyder, lanky Troy amateur, won the 1952 simon pure division in a playoff with Carlton Traver of Rhinebeck. They tied with 106s and Snyder won on the third hole of the sudden death playoff.

Golfers and their wives will be guests of the Woodstock Country Club at a luncheon and dance Thursday night when the Calcutta drawings will be made.

Los Angeles Receives Promise From Veeck

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (AP)—Bill Veeck has promised Los Angeles county and city officials that if they can purchase the local baseball park the American League will permit him to bring the St. Louis Browns major league franchise here next year, the Times said today.

The park is owned by P. K. Wrigley, who holds the franchises both for the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League and the Chicago Cubs of the National League.

Peacock Wants Carruthers After Taking U. S. Crown

Brooklyn, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy Peacock, a 21-year-old lad from Los Angeles, with only 18 pro fights under his belt, today was thinking in terms of the world's bantamweight crown after winning the North American championship from Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C.

First on Peacock's future calendar, however, is a return bout with Gault, whom he defeated last night on a 12-round split decision at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena. The rematch may be set back to mid-October so Peacock can have his bad tonsils taken out.

The new North American champion also wants to even matters with Baby Face Gutie Gutierrez who took away his California bantam crown last month.

"We should be ready for Jimmy Carruthers, the world titleholder, by the end of the year," said Joe Stanley, Peacock's manager.

Peacock won the title with solid body punches, a style he learned by watching Gil Turner.

Peacock, a slim negro, whipped into the lead with stiff rights to the body, then held off a closing spurt by Gault.

Referee Petey Scalzo called it 7-4-1 for Peacock and Judge Art Aidala saw it 7-5 for Peacock. Judge Charley Shortell had Gault the winner, 6-5-1. The Associated Press scorecard favored Peacock 6-5-1.

Gay Abbe Captures Westbury Feature

Westbury, Aug. 18 (AP)—The favored Gay Abbe staved off late bids of Dagsworthy York and Betty French to capture the $3,500 Massachusetts pace at Roosevelt Raceway last night.

Gay Abbe, owned by Heather Mactavish, La Chute, Canada, was driven by her father, Del Mactavish. The pacer, an eight-year-old brown gelding, covered the mile in 2:06.4 to beat Dagsworthy York by a neck with Betty French taking third a half length behind.

The winner returned $6.20, $4.10 and $2.90 across the board.

National AAU Event for Sunday Draws Crack Field

1953 Champ, Cirigliano Is Scheduled to Show

Thirty-five of the country's top-notch swimmers are already entered in the annual Men's Senior National AAU Long Distance Swimming championships Sunday Aug. 23, at Williams Lake.

In making the announcement, Frederick C. Dippel Jr., of the Williams Lake Athletic Club, laid aside rumors that the race would not be held because of the recent fire at the Ulster county resort. The race is scheduled at 1 p. m.

Dippel also said that Rocco Cirigliano, of Ohio State University, the 1952 winner, would be on hand to defend his title, along with the runnerup, Frank Nauss of York, Pa.

These two entries insure spectators another hair-raising contest, as last year only a yard or two separated the pair during the entire four-mile grind. They exchanged the lead several times before Cirigliano slipped home with a desperate last minute kick.

Champion Returns

The 1951 champion, Bob Arwezon, of the Providence Boys Club, has sent word that he expects to compete in this year's event.

The youngest swimmer entered so far is 14-year-old Frankie Brunell, the sensational merman from Philadelphia, who amazed spectators with his fourth-place finish last year.

Oldest entrant, of course, is the perennial favorite, 67-year-old Walter Pofahl of Orange, N. J., who is bound to win the hearts of the audience as he has done in the past.

Ohrbach AA Entered

Team entries have been received from the Huntington YMCA of Indiana, Cleveland Elks Club, New York Athletic Club, York, Pa., YMCA and Ohrbach AA of New York, the defending team champions.

Because of the excellent facilities for staging a race of this type Williams Lake was awarded the sanction for the big time contest over all other applicants throughout the United States.

In spite of the recent fire losses, Walter Williams decided to keep the race going at his resort and AAU officials responded enthusiastically. The fact that Charles Roeser, national swimming chairman, will attend to referee the race is evidence of the importance the AAU attaches to it.

F. W. Flint Upsets Campochiaro, 2-Up

Floyd W. Flint, Twaalfskill Club president, scored a major upset in the Class A flight when he defeated Frank Campochiaro, 2-up, in weekend action at the midtown links.

In another important match, Fabian Russell of Saugerties, downed veteran A. B. "Dan" Shufeldt, 1-up. Shufeldt had beaten Charles Vogel, 2-up, in a first round match while Russell won a default from Adrian Kaplan.

Gene Jordan defeated Robert O'Reilly, 5 and 4.

Joseph Garland defeated Austin Boyd, Jr., 4 and 2.

Gene Freer defeated Robert Russell, default.

Dr. Rodney Ball defeated George Schneider, 5 and 4.

Floyd W. Flint defeated William Fuller, 1-up.

Frank Campochiaro defeated Albert Flanagan, 3 and 2.

A. B. Shufeldt defeated Charles Vogel, 2-up.

Fabian Russell defeated Adrian Kaplan, default.

Wall Wins Playoff

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 18 (AP)—Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., was never behind as he defeated Cary Middlecoff of Memphis by two strokes in a playoff for the Fort Wayne Open golf title Monday. His $2,400 check was the first winner's prize he had pocketed in two years on the tournament circuit. Middlecoff took $1,800. Wall shot a 70 and Middlecoff 72.

Doblers Are Key Team In Week's Twi Schedule

Could Be Block to Joneses, Wiltwycks

Doblers Brewmeisters are the "team of the week" in the City Baseball League with a date this evening against Wiltwyck Motors and a Thursday engagement with Jones Dairy.

Both of these teams have designs on the second half flag, and, strangely enough, the Doblers still retain a mathematical chance.

Their two losses put them even with the Merchants and Motormen, although they lag two lengths behind in the win column.

Two Hurlers Ready

Manager Joe Hoffman has two front line flingers primed to thwart the pennant hopes of the opposition, Gerry Bechtold is the probable starter against Wiltwycks today, with George "No Hit" Magley going in the Thursday battle with Jones Dairy.

The Dairymen are faced with the necessity of winning their three remaining games to insure themselves the pennant. The next three teams show only two losses in the vital column but the pairings in the next two weeks should scramble those statistics a bit.

Tommy Fisher, who has replaced Joe Digastino as the bellwether of the Wiltwyck staff, is their logical choice to oppose Bechtold.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

• Around the Sports Beat:

Exhibition football scores and bowling notices infiltrating the sports pages these days, while baseball fans get chummy with the ticket offices of the Yankees and Dodgers. Kingston reaction to Leo Durocher's re-appointment for two years as manager of the New York Giants was mostly one of amazement. "What is Stoneham trying to do, empty out the Polo Grounds?" asked a John McGraw Giant fan.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

George Telepas, the former KHS southpaw who has been toiling in the Kitty League, due home after the seasonal finale on Aug. 23. . . . In time for some action in the Hudson valley round robin series, if his recent arm ailment responds to treatment. Golden Greek enjoyed fair success in his first stint with the second division Mayfield club. Next spring he should be better qualified to make his bid for a successful OB pitching career. Which reminds that another ex-KHS great, Clark Mains, returns to the Giant farm system after his release from the U. S. Navy next December. William R. Scully and Supervisor James DeCicco did a tremendous job in promoting the District 3 Little League tournament and the subsequent all-star game and hot dog roast for the small fry. Says Bud Wilkinson, football coach of the Oklahoma Sooners: "Although the new (substitution) rules will be disadvantageous to us in many respects, they are in my opinion good for football. I doubt if spectators will see much difference in the game, although there will probably be less scoring, principally because there will be fewer plays. The new substitution rule eliminates stopping the clock when the ball changes hands. Without these time outs the 60 minutes will run out faster than they did a year ago.

• Of Men and Mice:

Will Tommy Carlino, the Jones Dairy slugger, ever forget the horrendous experience of Saturday night at municipal stadium? Three errors and four strikeouts, once with the bases loaded. One of those nights that happen to every ball player at least once in a lifetime. Carl Furillo, The Arm of the Brooklyn Dodgers, says flatly that right field is the hardest position in the outfield. The Arm broke in with Brooklyn as a centerfielder, was moved to left and wound up in right. "The ball comes pretty much straight at you in center and left," Furillo explains. "This makes it easy to handle. But on hits to right field it has a crazy spin on it (like a golfer's slice) and does tricks. You've also got that long throw to third base."

Writing from La Jolla, Cal., Al Sonnenberg, the former local athlete, reports that major league sentiment on the Pacific Coast is the real McCoy and predicts that both Los Angeles and San Francisco will follow Milwaukee (and Baltimore) into the major league orbit. He said there is considerable agitation against waiting for the whole Coast league to be transferred to major league status. Rather, he points out, the individual cities like LA and San Francisco are willing to take their chances on going it alone. Los Angeles, now third ranking city in the United States, is the best possibility at the moment. Coach G. Warren Kias of Kingston High is in that small coterie of sports fans who believe baseball will make a local comeback within the next five years. "We're in the middle of a bad cycle," he says, "but in five years, television will no longer be a novelty, the roads will be overcrowded and people will want to return to live athletics." Bowling alley scuttlebutt has it that Larry Weishaupt, the Blond Bomber, could be missing from the Hudson valley championship bowling roster when the 1953-54 season opens. And in Poughkeepsie, Phil Versace has switched from the Old Guard to the youth movement of Jake Charter, George Baird, Dick Rhea et al to give the Bridge City its biggest pennant threat in years.

• Babe Set the Yankee Pattern:

Red Ruffing, one of their all-time hurling greats, doubts the Yankees can make it five straight, but feels the New York club has the spirit and tradition in its favor.

"You've got to fight them all the way," he says. "We used to step on the field with the feeling that we were winners. Yep, we beat a lot of teams before the game ever started.

"Joe McCarthy had a lot to do with it. I remember McCarthy used to take me aside and point to players on other teams. He had a contempt for inferior players, even though he never made the major leagues himself.

"Look at that $200-a-month guy," he'd say. "That guy never should get a basehit off you. I guess we came to believe it."

Ruffing believes that Babe Ruth laid the cornerstone for the solid Yankee psychology that is still there today. "The Babe made everybody feel that nothing could stop us because nothing could stop him," Ruffing said.

Holy Cross holds a one-game edge in its football series with Brown. The Crusaders have won 14, lost 13 while two ended in ties.

Oldest rival on Army's football schedule is Navy. They have played 53 games. Army leads 27 to 22. Four games were ties.

Musial Slowly Climbing Back Among Leaders

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—"The patient is recovering and gaining rapidly."

That bulletin might well be issued today on the condition of Stan Musial's hitting as the St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder strives for his severth National League batting championship.

Musial currently is batting .316, ninth highest in the senior circuit. But a couple of good days will put him within striking distance of Monte Irvin, the NL's pace-setter.

Irvin, New York Giants' outfielder, has been on the shelf with an injured ankle since Aug. 9, and has held on to his No. 1 spot with a .339 average. Carl Furillo of the Brooklyn Dodgers is second with .333 followed by Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski at .331.

Vernon Leads AL

In the American League, Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators is leading with a .331 mark. Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox has zoomed into the runner-up position only two points back. Minnie gained 13 points last week while Vernon tailed off four.

Musial was hitting a lowly .256 in mid-June but has been on the rise since then. He has hit safely in 15 of his last 16 games and picked up another two points last week with 10 hits in 29 times at bat. The Cards still have 40 games left to play.

Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves tops the National League in home runs with 37 and Brooklyn's Roy Campanella has the most runs batted in, 111.

Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians and Gus Zernial of the Philadelphia Athletics share the American League home run lead with 29 apiece. Rosen has driven in the most tallies, 101.

Pierce Leads AL In Earned Runs

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Billy (The Kid) Pierce, who has emerged as a top-flight American League pitcher this year, and Warren Spahn, one of the National's best since 1947, lead their respective circuits in earned run averages today.

Pierce, slender Chicago White Sox southpaw, has given up only 49 earned runs in 201 innings for a 2.19 mark. He has hurled three straight shutouts in his most recent starts and hasn't been scored on in 34 2/3 innings. Billy has won 16 games, his major league high, and lost seven.

Spahn, a 20-game winner in four of his seven big league campaigns, has permitted 45 earned runs in 183 frames for a 2.21 average. The 32-year-old Milwaukee lefthander has a 16-5 record this year.

Virgil Trucks, another White Sox pitching ace, is runner-up to Pierce in the American League with a 2.54 ERA.

Eddie Lopat of the New York Yankees is third at 2.56.

NBA Game of Week

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—The National Basketball Association will have a "Game of the Week" on television this season from December through March. NBA President Maurice Podoloff and Tom McMahon, sports director for the Dumont Television Network, concluded arrangements for the series yesterday.

Favorites Score At Woodstock CC

Three of four favorites have advanced to the second round and will square off in 18-hole quarter-final matches in the championship flight at Woodstock Country Club this weekend.

In 18-hole action, Boyer Gonzales, defending champion, trounced Walter Seaton, 5 and 4. Norman Foster, a darkhorse entry, overpowered Stephen DeLisio, 8 and 7, while Billy Waterous had to travel 20 holes for a 1-up victory over Victor Allen.

Adios Boy Against Field at Yonkers

Yonkers, Aug. 18 (AP)—Adios Boy, the two-year-old pacer who holds the world mile record of 2:03 for horses of his age, goes against a field of nine tonight in the Pelham at Yonkers Raceway. Adios Boy, who will be driven by Howard Camden, has won his last four starts. Red Flame will be second choice in the juvenile stake which will have a value of $4,800.

Elks Club Nears FYL Pennant With 6-2 Win Over Rotary Nine

Need Only Two More Triumphs To Cinch Pennant

Van Etten and Turck Hurl Two-Hitter

The powerful Elks Club nine is a step closer to the Fraternal Youth League pennant today.

The Antlers got a brilliant two-hit pitching performance from Tom Van Etten and Tony Turck to whip the Rotary, 6-2, in yesterday's action at municipal stadium.

The Elks can wrap up the 1953 pennant by taking two of their remaining three games. They would finish the season with 10 wins and two losses. The second place American Legion has already dropped three.

Tie for Five

Seeking to avert its 10th consecutive loss, the Rotarians made it a close game for five innings. They picked up a single tally in the top of the fifth to tie the score at 1-1 before the Elks exploded with four in their half.

Van Etten, the reformed second sacker, got relief from Turck to register his fourth straight win. Johnny Culjack, who allowed seven hits, was charged with his fourth loss.

Elks sent eight men to the plate in the big fifth inning. Walks to Fibber Davit and Dick Hornbeck and a fielder's choice loaded the bases with none out.

Eric Blackwell singled to right scoring Davitt but Van Etten was out at the plate on a perfect throw by right fielder Bob Hart. That sent the Elks ahead 2-1 and Tony Turck's single promptly delivered Van Etten and Hornbeck to make it 4-1. Turck took second on the throw-in, reached third on Jack Redmond's infield out and scored on Jim Nerone's safety to right.

A walk, steal and error gave the Rotary its first run in the fifth and Lee Kias' single accounted for the second marker in the sixth.

Turck Leads Hitters

Tony Turck was the leading hitter with a double and single. Eric Blackwell had two solo swats for the Elks, with Jim Nerone, Tom Davitt and Tom Van Etten getting the others. The two Rotary hits went to Lee Kias and Bob Hart.

VFW is scheduled for two games this week, starting with Wednesday's clash with the Police. They meet Rotary on Thursday. Friday's pairing will be announced later.

100-Game Goal Only Incentive Left to Yankees and Dodgers

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Now that the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers virtually have run off and hidden from the rest of the clubs, they're working on a little intramural competition to hold their interest.

The Dodgers with 39 games left need to win 22 to hit the century mark—a figure reached by only two other Brooklyn clubs in history. The Yankees will have to win 21 of their last 38. Yankée teams in the past have reached 100 or more eight times, but not in the last 11 years.

Both the Yankees and Dodgers fattened their leads last night. The New Yorkers won a pair of one-sided games from Philadelphia 10-3 and 9-0 and moved nine games in front of the idle Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn came from behind on Duke Snider's two-run homer in the ninth and then beat Pittsburgh on Gil Hodges' three-run blast in the 11th 5-2. The Dodgers gained half a game on the unscheduled Milwaukee Braves and lead by 8½ games.

Giants Split

In the only other activity the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies split a pair in the privacy of the spacious Polo Grounds. Only 2,885 cash customers watched the Phils win the first game 5-2 and bow in the second 6-0. The doubleheader was the third in three days between the two clubs. The Giants won the series, four games to two.

The Phils clinched the first game with four runs in the eighth inning off Dave Koslo who started his first game since June 23. The Giants took the nightcap from Andy Hansen who was making his first start in three years.

Lindell Loses Toughie

Johnny Lindell tamed the Dodgers on three hits until Bobby Morgan opened the ninth with a single and Snider followed with his 28th homer. In the 11th Lindell walked Snider and Jackie Robinson and Hodges found the left field stands with his 26th home run.

Yogi Berra hit his 21st home run in the Yankees' first game romp. Whitey Ford picked up his 15th victory, tops on the New York mound staff, but he had to have help from Tom Gorman in the seventh. In the second game the Yankees opened with five runs, more than enough for Bob Kuzava who scattered 11 hits effectively enough to score a shutout.

NCAA Charges 5 Other Schools Violated Collegiate Policies

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—With the name of mighty Notre Dame added to its disciplinary list, the National Collegiate Athletic Association turned to other investigations today.

A spokesman said five more schools are involved in charges of violating the NCAA's athletic code but that investigations are incomplete. The schools were not named.

Notre Dame—along with Michigan State and Arizona State—was reprimanded by the NCAA's 17-man council, a policy-making group, at the close of its meeting yesterday.

Michigan State already had been put on probation by the Big Ten Conference because of the activities of an off-campus "foundation" which allegedly aided athletics. The council said it supported this action.

All three schools were cited for permitting campus tryouts of prospective athletes. Neither Notre Dame nor Michigan State received any specific punishment but Arizona State, at Tempe, was put on two years' probation.

In addition to permitting tryouts, the Arizona school was charged with permitting pay to athletes. As a further punishment, all its athletes were ruled ineligible for NCAA championship events for the 1953-54 school year.

Notre Dame and Arizona State admitted doing wrong but grumbled about the severity of the NCAA's action.

Elks Club Nears FYL Pennant With 6-2 Win Over Rotary Nine

Need Only Two More Triumphs To Cinch Pennant

Van Etten and Turck Hurl Two-Hitter

The powerful Elks Club nine is a step closer to the Fraternal Youth League pennant today.

The Antlers got a brilliant two-hit pitching performance from Tom Van Etten and Tony Turck to whip the Rotary, 6-2, in yesterday's action at municipal stadium.

The Elks can wrap up the 1953 pennant by taking two of their remaining three games. They would finish the season with 10 wins and two losses. The second place American Legion has already dropped three.

Tie for Five

Seeking to avert its 10th consecutive loss, the Rotarians made it a close game for five innings. They picked up a single tally in the top of the fifth to tie the score at 1-1 before the Elks exploded with four in their half.

Van Etten, the reformed second sacker, got relief from Turck to register his fourth straight win. Johnny Culjack, who allowed seven hits, was charged with his fourth loss.

Elks sent eight men to the plate in the big fifth inning. Walks to Fibber Davit and Dick Hornbeck and a fielder's choice loaded the bases with none out.

Eric Blackwell singled to right scoring Davitt but Van Etten was out at the plate on a perfect throw by right fielder Bob Hart. That sent the Elks ahead 2-1 and Tony Turck's single promptly delivered Van Etten and Hornbeck to make it 4-1. Turck took second on the throw-in, reached third on Jack Redmond's infield out and scored on Jim Nerone's safety to right.

A walk, steal and error gave the Rotary its first run in the fifth and Lee Kias' single accounted for the second marker in the sixth.

Turck Leads Hitters

Tony Turck was the leading hitter with a double and single. Eric Blackwell had two solo swats for the Elks, with Jim Nerone, Tom Davitt and Tom Van Etten getting the others. The two Rotary hits went to Lee Kias and Bob Hart.

VFW is scheduled for two games this week, starting with Wednesday's clash with the Police. They meet Rotary on Thursday. Friday's pairing will be announced later.

100-Game Goal Only Incentive Left to Yankees and Dodgers

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Now that the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers virtually have run off and hidden from the rest of the clubs, they're working on a little intramural competition to hold their interest.

The Dodgers with 39 games left need to win 22 to hit the century mark—a figure reached by only two other Brooklyn clubs in history. The Yankees will have to win 21 of their last 38. Yankee teams in the past have reached 100 or more eight times, but not in the last 11 years.

Both the Yankees and Dodgers fattened their leads last night. The New Yorkers won a pair of one-sided games from Philadelphia 10-3 and 9-0 and moved nine games in front of the idle Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn came from behind on Duke Snider's two-run homer in the ninth and then beat Pittsburgh on Gil Hodges' three-run blast in the 11th 5-2. The Dodgers gained half a game on the unscheduled Milwaukee Braves and lead by 8½ games.

Giants Split

In the only other activity the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies split a pair in the privacy of the spacious Polo Grounds. Only 2,885 cash customers watched the Phils win the first game 5-2 and bow in the second 6-0. The doubleheader was the third in three days between the two clubs. The Giants won the series, four games to two.

The Phils clinched the first game with four runs in the eighth inning off Dave Koslo who started his first game since June 23. The Giants took the nightcap from Andy Hansen who was making his first start in three years.

Lindell Loses Toughie

Johnny Lindell tamed the Dodgers on three hits until Bobby Morgan opened the ninth with a single and Snider followed with his 28th homer. In the 11th Lindell walked Snider and Jackie Robinson and Hodges found the left field stands with his 26th home run.

Yogi Berra hit his 21st home run in the Yankees' first game romp. Whitey Ford picked up his 15th victory, tops on the New York mound staff, but he had to have help from Tom Gorman in the seventh. In the second game the Yankees opened with five runs, more than enough for Bob Kuzava who scattered 11 hits effectively enough to score a shutout.

Lions Club Meets Kiwanis in Softball

The Lions Club will meet the Kiwanis Club in a softball game at Hutton Park at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday.

John Gilligan, sports chairman for the Lions, revealed today that he plans to have about three complete teams available, and will put in a complete new line-up every two innings. Manager Gilligan will be his own starting pitcher, he said.

Managing the Kiwanis team will be Richard F. Riseley, activities committee chairman, who found himself faced with the task of organizing his team on short notice, having just returned from vacation on Monday. He was unable today to release the name of his starting pitcher.

NCAA Charges 5 Other Schools Violated Collegiate Policies

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—With the name of mighty Notre Dame added to its disciplinary list, the National Collegiate Athletic Association turned to other investigations today.

A spokesman said five more schools are involved in charges of violating the NCAA's athletic code but that investigations are incomplete. The schools were not named.

Notre Dame—along with Michigan State and Arizona State—was reprimanded by the NCAA's 17-man council, a policy-making group, at the close of its meeting yesterday.

Michigan State already had been put on probation by the Big Ten Conference because of the activities of an off-campus "foundation" which allegedly aided athletics. The council said it supported this action.

It also asked an accounting, by Feb. 22, of the foundation's operations.

All three schools were cited for permitting campus tryouts of prospective athletes. Neither Notre Dame nor Michigan State received any specific punishment but Arizona State, at Tempe, was put on two years' probation.

In addition to permitting tryouts, the Arizona school was charged with permitting pay to athletes. As a further punishment, all its athletes were ruled ineligible for NCAA championship events for the 1953-54 school year.

VJ Celebration Last Night and in 1945

Veterans, national guardsmen, youth groups and clergymen stand in salute to those who gave their lives in the war with Japan that ended on VJ Day in 1945. (Freeman Photo)

This is a Freeman photo of the celebration that took place locally eight years ago, when VJ Day was announced.

Leyte harbor looked like a giant fireworks display on VJ Day as navy men in the Third Fleet celebrated the cessation of histilities in the war with Japan. This pictorial recording was made by Knute Beichert of The Freeman, a cameraman at the time on the ship Culebra Island.

1,500 Enjoy Show And VJ Dance at Armory Monday

Last night's VJ Day celebration, featuring a parade and program at the 156th Field Artillery armory, was considered a marked success by those responsible for arrangements.

Indications are that the event will be an annual one to honor those who served and gave their lives in the war with Japan, which ended in 1945.

Many turned out to watch the line of veterans, patriotic organizations, military units and youth groups march from Academy Green to the armory, where there was a talk by Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin of the 156th Field Artillery National Guard, an elaborate floor show furnished by Peg Leg Bates of stage, screen and TV fame and a dance.

Harkin Welcomes 1,500

Colonel Harkin, commander of the First Battalion, 156th, welcomed more than 1,500 to the armory, where a 12-piece band from Local 215, Musicians Protective Union, furnished music for the dance through the courtesy of the organization's fund to promote civic and other benevolent enterprises. Don Pierson was the director.

Pete Ferraro, chairman of arrangements for use of the fund, said the musicians were more than proud to have a part in the VJ Day celebration, which was proclaimed by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk as a patriotic event to honor those who fought in the Pacific campaign against the Japanese.

Brings Whole Show Free

Peg Leg Bates, who can boast about $1,000 a performance engagements, appeared at the armory free, and brought with him his whole floor show from his Peg Leg Bates Country Club in Kerhonkson, with a five-piece band.

Bates, who has appeared in Kingston before at leading social events in the municipal auditorium, found it difficult to get away from the audience. Applause echoed through the armory drill hall as he did his routine on his wooden leg.

As master of ceremonies, he introduced Ludie Jones, dancer extraordinary; Loretta Mason, songstress, and his comedy team, Amos and Estrellita, who kept the audience laughing from start to finish.

The whole Bates show, which would have run into a $2,500 figure through a booker, was a donation through the celebrated performer, who said he was happy to take part in the patriotic event out of deference to Colonel Harkin and the veterans of the South Pacific campaign.

War Movies Shown

Two War Department movies were shown at the Little League stadium outside the armory, one about action in the European theatre of war and the other about operations in the Asiatic-Pacific theatre.

Colonel Harkin said the National Guard was pleased to participate in the event and offer the use of the armory and its facilities for the patriotic occasion.

Besides the National Guard, other organizations helping with arrangements for the VJ Day celebration, and marching in last night's parade were:

Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Post 150, American Legion; 40 and 8; Local 215, American Federation of Musicians; Chemical Warfare Service Veterans Association; the Regular Veterans Association of New York State and the Ulster County Marine Corps League.

Aldermen in Kingston's Common Council were absent from the parade because of a recessed meeting last night, which was held at 7:30 in the city hall.

Moose Club Beats Alpine Climbers

Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of Moose, defeated the Alpine team, 2 to 1, in a Sunday afternoon softball game at Hasbrouck Park.

Ed Lown, Moose pitcher, held the Alpines to three hits. Don Koeppen, losing hurler, allowed nine hits. Alpine is the third place team in the City League.

Leaves for Tokyo

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations Far East commander, left by plane yesterday with his family for his Tokyo headquarters. Clark, his wife, son and daughter-in-law, are due in Tokyo at 5 a. m. Wednesday (3 p. m. Tuesday EST).

Fund Asked to Repair New York City Hall

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Public Works Commissioner Frederick H. Zurmuhlen says the outer walls of city hall are in such bad shape that a person could "knock a couple of tons of stone off with a tack hammer."

Zurmuhlen yesterday urged the spending of $2,275,000 to repair the 141-year-old city hall. He appeared at a City Planning Commission hearing on the city's proposed capital budget for the new fiscal year.

The Public Works commissioner also asked for $21,295,000 for work on the Manhattan bridge across the East river. He said subway trains rumbling across it are causing strain and deterioration. But he said the span is safe.

Ulster County Fair

Two Demonstrations

Two demonstrations will be given Wednesday night. Nelson Ellsworth of Port Ewen will give a poultry demonstration, entitled Keep or Kill, devoted to the problem of culling. Kenneth Van Wagenen of Lomontville will give a soil conservation demonstration which will be of interest to home gardeners as well as to farmers.

The 4-H tractor maintentnce contest will be held Thursday morning.

Poultry exhibits—including 98 birds from the Kiwanis 4-H Baby Chick project—will be on display.

This year, because of the danger of spreading disease, poultry exhibitors are being advised to kill their birds and use them or place them in freezer lockers right after the fair, rather than taking them back to the flocks.

Exhibits will be judged and awards made as scheduled Wednesday and Thursday regardless of the weather.

VJ Celebration Last Night and in 1945

Veterans, national guardsmen, youth groups and clergymen stand in salute to those who gave their lives in the war with Japan that ended on VJ Day in 1945. (Freeman Photo)

Leyte harbor looked like a giant fireworks display on VJ Day as navy men in the Third Fleet celebrated the cessation of histilities in the war with Japan. This pictorial recording was made by Knute Beichert of The Freeman, a cameraman at the time on the ship Culebra Island.

1,500 Enjoy Show And VJ Dance at Armory Monday

Last night's VJ Day celebration, featuring a parade and program at the 156th Field Artillery armory, was considered a marked success by those responsible for arrangements.

Indications are that the event will be an annual one to honor those who served and gave their lives in the war with Japan, which ended in 1945.

Many turned out to watch the line of veterans, patriotic organizations, military units and youth groups march from Academy Green to the armory, where there was a talk by Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin of the 156th Field Artillery National Guard, an elaborate floor show furnished by Peg Leg Bates of stage, screen and TV fame and a dance.

Harkin Welcomes 1,500

Colonel Harkin, commander of the First Battalion, 156th, welcomed more than 1,500 to the armory, where a 12-piece band from Local 215, Musicians Protective Union, furnished music for the dance through the courtesy of the organization's fund to promote civic and other benevolent enterprises. Don Pierson was the director.

Pete Ferraro, chairman of arrangements for use of the fund, said the musicians were more than proud to have a part in the VJ Day celebration, which was proclaimed by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk as a patriotic event to honor those who fought in the Pacific campaign against the Japanese.

Brings Whole Show Free

Peg Leg Bates, who can boast about $1,000 a performance engagements, appeared at the armory free, and brought with him his whole floor show from his Peg Leg Bates Country Club in Kerhonkson, with a five-piece band.

Bates, who has appeared in Kingston before at leading social events in the municipal auditorium, found it difficult to get away from the audience. Applause echoed through the armory drill hall as he did his routine on his wooden leg.

As master of ceremonies, he introduced Ludie Jones, dancer extraordinary; Loretta Mason, songstress, and his comedy team, Amos and Estrellita, who kept the audience laughing from start to finish.

The whole Bates show, which would have run into a $2,500 figure through a booker, was a donation through the celebrated performer, who said he was happy to take part in the patriotic event out of deference to Colonel Harkin and the veterans of the South Pacific campaign.

War Movies Shown

Two War Department movies were shown at the Little League stadium outside the armory, one about action in the European theatre of war and the other about operations in the Asiatic-Pacific theatre.

Colonel Harkin said the National Guard was pleased to participate in the event and offer the use of the armory and its facilities for the patriotic occasion.

Besides the National Guard, other organizations helping with arrangements for the VJ Day celebration, and marching in last night's parade were:

Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Post 150, American Legion; 40 and 8; Local 215, American Federation of Musicians; Chemical Warfare Service Veterans Association; the Regular Veterans Association of New York State and the Ulster County Marine Corps League.

Aldermen in Kingston's Common Council were absent from the parade because of a recessed meeting last night, which was held at 7:30 in the city hall.

Moose Club Beats Alpine Climbers

Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of Moose, defeated the Alpine team, 2 to 1, in a Sunday afternoon softball game at Hasbrouck Park.

Ed Lown, Moose pitcher, held the Alpines to three hits. Don Koeppen, losing hurler, allowed nine hits. Alpine is the third place team in the City League.

Fund Asked to Repair New York City Hall

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Public Works Commissioner Frederick H. Zurmuhlen says the outer walls of city hall are in such bad shape that a person could "knock a couple of tons of stone off with a tack hammer."

Zurmuhlen yesterday urged the spending of $2,275,000 to repair the 141-year-old city hall. He appeared at a City Planning Commission hearing on the city's proposed capital budget for the new fiscal year.

The Public Works commissioner also asked for $21,295,000 for work on the Manhattan bridge across the East river. He said subway trains rumbling across it are causing strain and deterioration. But he said the span is safe.

Ulster County Fair

Two Demonstrations

Two demonstrations will be given Wednesday night. Nelson Ellsworth of Port Ewen will give a poultry demonstration, entitled Keep or Kill, devoted to the problem of culling. Kenneth Van Wagenen of Lomontville will give a soil conservation demonstration which will be of interest to home gardeners as well as to farmers.

The 4-H tractor maintentnce contest will be held Thursday morning.

Poultry exhibits—including 98 birds from the Kiwanis 4-H Baby Chick project—will be on display.

This year, because of the danger of spreading disease, poultry exhibitors are being advised to kill their birds and use them or place them in freezer lockers right after the fair, rather than taking them back to the flocks.

Tierney Is Acquitted

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney, who once portrayed outlaw John Dillinger in the movies, was acquitted yesterday of charges that he hit a night club pianist on the head with a microphone. A 3-judge Special Sessions Court bench deliberated 10 minutes and then split 2-1 to free the 33-year-old Tierney, who described the incident as an accident. Benjamin Azzara, the pianist, testified Tierney hit him with the mike July 28 in the Tiger Lily lounge on 45th street. The pianist said Tierney was aroused when somebody at the bar heckled the actor's impromptu singing.

Tierney Is Acquitted

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney, who once portrayed outlaw John Dillinger in the movies, was acquitted yesterday of charges that he hit a night club pianist on the head with a microphone. A 3-judge Special Sessions Court bench deliberated 10 minutes and then split 2-1 to free the 33-year-old Tierney, who described the incident as an accident. Benjamin Azzara, the pianist, testified Tierney hit him with the mike July 28 in the Tiger Lily lounge on 45th street. The pianist said Tierney was aroused when somebody at the bar heckled the actor's impromptu singing.
